DEAD TAKEN FROM RUINS LAVA MADE

Fiery Volcanic Torrents Leave Corpses Strewn in Their Paths.

THOUSANDS SUFFER

Population Terrified, 40,000 Are Driven from Home—Naples Shaken by Earthquakes.

OBSERVATORY IS DESTROYED

SPECIAL CABLE FROM LA PRENZA.
(Copyright, 1906, by New York Herald Co.)

NAPLES, April 9.—News from the scene of the disaster at Vesuvius is very scarce owing to the fact that all the general communication is interrupted, but according to the latest particulars several houses and the church at San Giuseppe Vesuviano have collapsed, and 30 dead bodies have been taken from the ruins.

Several houses at Sangiovanni collapsed owing to the almost continuous earth shocks, but no persons have been reported killed.

At Borcotrecase seven have been killed and six dead bodies have been found at Torre Annunziata, while the injured can be counted by thousands.

The government has ordered the railway companies to carry the fugitives from the affected districts free of charge.

The Vesuvian railway has been completely destroyed, and the stream of lava is 20 feet high, while the dust and ashes have even reached Sicily.

Thousands of people have left Naples, fearing a recurrence of the earthquake.

The king and queen of Italy have left Rome and are coming here in strict privacy.

Pope Greatly Distressed by the Calamity.

ROME, April 8.—Pope Pius is greatly distressed by the calamity wrought by the eruption of Mount Vesuvius. In talking to his secretary today he said: "These are moments when my imprisonment is irksome." His holiness personally will not be able to go to the scene, but he has sent a letter to Cardinal Prisco, a bishop of Naples, expressing his grief for the sufferers by the disaster, and instructing him to distribute relief among them, and to send to the vatican all particulars of the eruption. He gave the apostolic benediction to the faithful.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NAPLES, April 8.—The hope that Mount Vesuvius was becoming calm was dissipated today, when the volcano became more active than ever.

The panic has spread to Naples. Two strong earthquake shocks, which shattered windows and cracked the walls of buildings, were experienced today. The entire population rushed to the streets in terror, many persons crying "The Madonna has forsaken us; the end of the world has come!"

No trace remains of Boscotrecase, a commune on the southern declivity of the mountain, where up to 48 hours ago 10,000 persons lived, and Torre Annunziata, on the shores of the Gulf of Naples, one mile to the southward, is almost surrounded by the invading lava and has been evacuated by its 30,000 inhabitants. The people were brought to Naples by trains, street cars, military carts and steamships. Similar means of transportation are being employed to bring away the people from Torre del Greco. The police and carbineers are guarding the abandoned houses, and several members of the government also are there.

People Are Terror Stricken.

A telegram received from the mayor of San Sebastiano, a village near the observatory on the northwest declivity of Vesuvius, says the lava is approaching rapidly and that the people are terror-stricken. They have been for nights without sleep, he says, are destitute, and assistance is being given them.

The work of succor is hampered owing to delays to the railway service, which is interrupted by redhot stones thrown to a height of 3,000 feet falling on the tracks.

As yet it is impossible to count the craters that have opened and from which streams of lava have flooded the beautiful, prosperous and happy land lying on the southeast shores of the Gulf of Naples.

The atmosphere is heavily charged with electricity and now and then the flashes of lightning are blinding, while the detonations from the volcano resemble those of terrible explosions.

The churches of the city were open all Saturday night and were crowded with panic-stricken people. Members of the clergy are doing their utmost to calm their fears, but the effects of their arguments go almost for naught when renewed earthquake shocks are experienced.

Like an Enraged Giant.

With the danger and horror of the situation aside, Vesuvius presents one of the most splendid sights imaginable. The mountain of fire, whose speech is by detonation and whose acts are destruction, seems like an enraged giant determined to make the pigmies of earth feel the might of his wrath. Here and there on the mountainside stand the blasted trunks of pine trees, their bare branches outstretched as though in protest against the devastation the volcano has wrought.

SUPERINTENDENT HARRY J. BIRD,
Who Has Forty Homeless Show Girls on His Hands.

SEEKING HOMES FOR 40 PRETTY CHORUS GIRLS

Braddock Hotels Are Unable to Take Care of a Company of Musical Comedians.

Forty pretty but tired show girls will be homeless in Braddock tomorrow night unless the good people of that busy borough throw open their residences to them. This bears out Judge McClung's announcement in license court that he "understood that with three or four exceptions all the hotels in the town were nothing more than saloons operated for the sole purpose of selling liquors."

Superintendent Harry J. Bird of the Braddock Carnegie library is facing this dilemma. Under instructions from the library board of trustees, Mr. Bird has been presenting some of the best comedies and musical comedies that come to the higher-priced houses in Pittsburgh. This work is congenial, as he was for years a member of the late Sir Henry Irving's London stock company.

One of Weber & Field's attractions is to appear at Braddock Carnegie hall tomorrow evening. The manager of the company said his 50 artists would be tired from long jumps and requested that accommodations be found for all in Braddock, as they would not feel like taking a long ride on night cars into Pittsburgh after the performance. Mr. Bird at once set out to look up accommodations. After scouring the town he found places for 10. He spent almost a day in doing it, and then advertised in the newspapers for accommodations without result, and he is still wondering what he will do with the 40 show girls.

Mr. Bird says he has had troubles "on the road" years ago, but nothing just like the oresent.

GIRL MUST CARRY BOY'S NAME

Grandmother's Mistake as to Sex at Christening Will Not Be Rectified by Rebaptism.

TRENTON, N. J., April 8.—(Special.)—Although given a boy's name by mistake in baptism today, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McLaughlin of this city will not have to go through life with the appellation she received at the baptismal altar.

The child was born Tuesday and was taken to the church today by its grandmother. The woman had heard the doctor who attended Mrs. McLaughlin say "it's a fine chap," and believing the baby to be a boy had it baptized "James Edward McLaughlin, Jr." The mistake was afterward discovered, but the church authorities refused to rebaptize the baby. She will, however, be called Hazel J. E. McLaughlin.

Man Who Had Sent to Scotland for His Children Is Killed in a Cave-in in a Coal Mine.

IRWIN, PA., April 8.—(Special.)—While drawing stumps in the Larimer mine last evening several men were caught in a cave-in. Pringle Hardy was killed and William Daugherty had his leg broken.

Daugherty had a narrow escape from death, the upper part of his body not being covered by the debris and he was thus saved from suffocation. Hardy came to this county from Scotland a short time ago. Recently he sent money to pay the passage for his wife and several children and they are en route to join him.

LONG SLEEP ENDS IN DEATH.

Colorado Woman Slumbers for 97 Days and Succumbs to Pneumonia.

BOULDER, COLO., April 8.—(Special.)—After sleeping for 97 days, Mrs. S. A. Griffin, wife of one of the best-known attorneys in Colorado, is dead. The immediate cause of death was pneumonia.

Mrs. Griffin was stricken on New Year's day. She never regained consciousness for a moment from that time until she died. She was kept alive by injections of liquid food. Two days ago Mrs. Griffin was stricken with pneumonia. Nerve specialists were unable to correctly diagnose the disease from which she suffered.

MAYOR WEAVER MAY TESTIFY FOR DEFENSE

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—(Special.)—Mayor Weaver may be subpoenaed by the McNichol-Durham contractors' combine to give testimony for the defense in the suit that has been instituted by the city against the members of the firm of D. J. McNichol & Co. and ex-Directors Costello and Haddock and ex-Chief Sill to recover a sum in excess of $5,000,000, which, it is alleged, represents graft wrung from the treasury through a gigantic conspiracy participated in by the defendants.

BOAT BLOWN TO PIECES IN OHIO RIVER

H. M. Hoxie Sinks While Returning Home With Tow of Empties.

ONE MAN IS MISSING

Explosion of Boilers Injures Eight Others—Capt. Woodward in the Second Disaster.

MANNED BY PITTSBURGHERS

The big towboat H. M. Hoxie, one of the largest on the rivers, was blown to pieces by an explosion of its boilers yesterday morning at 5 o'clock on the Ohio river at Portland, O., while returning to Pittsburgh with a tow of 24 empties. One man is missing and eight others were injured, three so badly that it is believed they will die. The boat was under the command of Capt. James A. Woodward, who was also commander of the Defender, which was blown up by a boiler explosion near Huntington a few years ago, and nine men killed.

MISSING.

JOHN MORAN, fireman.

INJURED.

EDWARD McGONIGLE, lamp trimmer, Pittsburgh; scalded and arm broken; expected to die.
JOSEPH WHEELER, fireman, Pittsburgh; scalded; may die.
DANIEL CASEY, fireman, Pittsburgh; seriously scalded, but expected to recover.
JILES COOPER, deckhand; arm broken and side hurt.
JOHN COOK, deckhand; scalded; may die.
JAMES WYLAND, fireman; seriously burned.
HENRY BAKER, cook; burned.
ABE WOLF, mate, burned.

Explosion Hurls Crew Into River.

The boat had just left an empty flat to be loaded with coal-bank props at Portland, which is a few miles up the river from Ravenswood, W. Va., and was starting up stream again when Capt. Woodward noticed the water was getting too low in the boilers and directed that more be turned into them. It was probably turned on in too strong a stream, for there was a terrible explosion which tore out the whole side of the vessel and sent pieces of the boilers in all directions. The force of the explosion was sideways, instead of upward, so that only those who were close to the boilers were injured.

Had the force been upward, probably every man on the boat would have been injured or killed. The whole deck was filled with escaping steam as the two outside boilers of the battery let go and men fell to their knees and crawled from the steam. Several were hurled by the explosion into the water, but swam ashore, the boat being close to the bank.

Almost instantly the vessel sank and those who were on the upper deck jumped to the barges for safety, while those who were thrown into the water were also picked up and taken to the barges. The noise of the explosion awakened people living near the river and it was the work of but a few minutes to get boats out and rescue those who had been forced into the river.

Injured Taken to Parkersburg.

When the roll of the crew was called a little later, it was found that John Moran, a deckhand, was missing. He has not been found and it is believed that he was killed by the explosion, and his body carried down with the vessel.

Joseph Wheeler and Edward McGonigle were so charred and burned that it was impossible to identify them except by their clothing. They and Casey were taken to a Parkersburg hospital on a noon train. Wyland, Cook, Baker and Wolf were cared for near the scene of the accident.

Doctors were summoned from Portland, Ravenswood and Parkersburg. The uninjured members of the crew and those of the injured who were able to stand the trip were placed on a train and arrived in Pittsburgh last evening at 6 o'clock. The men lost all their possession on board the boat. They reported at the local offices of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company and were paid off.

Loss Is $75,000.

Moran, the missing fireman, was not well known at the office of the company, having been in the company's employ only a short time. His home is unknown. A letter found in his trunk shows that he had a sister, a Mrs. Dickson, living at 272 East Seventy-sixth street, New York. Word was sent to that address.

The H. M. Hoxie, which was owned by the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, was built at Cincinnati in 1888. She was 212 feet long, 35 feet wide, and had engines of 28 inches cylinder and an 8-foot stroke. She was formerly owned by the St. Louis and Mississippi Valley Transportation Company. The loss is estimated at about $50,000 on the boat and $15,000 on the barges. It is stated that the boat was fully insured.

The crew consisted of Capt. James A. Woodward; pilot, Harry W. Fairfield; mate, Abe Wolf; watchman, Robert McIntyre; engineer, Samuel R. Campbell; steward, Henry Baker. There were also 14 deckhands and eight firemen.

CARNEGIE KISS IS A THRILLER AND SOOTHER

Recipient of Steelmaster's Osculatory Tribute Is Enthusiastic Over Sensation.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ATLANTA, GA., April 8.—The "Carnegie kiss leaves nothing to be desired" is the verdict of Mrs. J. H. Eichberg of Atlanta, whose lips were glued to those of the canny Scotchman for a brief interval at the reception given to the ironmaster when he was in Atlanta.

"Mr. Carnegie as a kisser is unexcelled," continued Mrs. Eichberg. "The pressure of his lips is satisfying in every respect. His kiss thrills and at the same time soothes. He is not hasty in kissing, which accounts in a measure for the delight which follows the pressure of his lips. His lack of haste in removing his lips enables the recipient of his kiss to extract all that is possible from osculation. To my dying day I shall never forget the joyful sensation I experienced while Mr. Carnegie's lips were on mine. Mr. Carnegie may be old in years, but he is still young in his ability to kiss."

"How does the Carnegie kiss compare with the Hobson article?"

"The Carnegie kiss is superior to the Hobson kiss in every way," said Mrs. Eichberg. "I was kissed by Capt. Hobson when he was in Atlanta some years ago, but I got no special pleasure from it. Of course, there is some pleasure for a woman in any kiss, but the Hobson kiss lacks the satisfying qualities of the Carnegie kiss. Capt. Hobson just pecks at your lips and leaves one wondering why he didn't make a good job of it. Mr. Carnegie does make a good job of it. He puts his lips squarely on yours and he keeps them there long enough for one to understand just what good kissing means. The Hobson kiss is immature; the Carnegie kiss is mature. I shall never forget the delights of the Carnegie kiss."

TAKES FAST RAILROAD RIDE.

Andrew Carnegie Makes Futile Race to Overtake a Regular Passenger Train.

RICHMOND, VA., April 8.—(Special.)—At the bidding of Andrew Carnegie, an engine of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad today bound over the rails at top notch speed in an effort to catch the regular train, which had a full hour's start. He did not succeed.

Mr. Carnegie arrived on the quarter of 3 o'clock Atlantic Coast Line train. Finding that the regular train had left, he appealed to the general manager of the road. An engine was attached to a private car and Mr. Carnegie started westward to overtake the other train. Arriving at Gordonsville, Mr. Carnegie learned that the regular passenger had gone but a few minutes before, on its way to Hot Springs, his destination. He then gave up the chase and after the members of the train crew had been handsomely rewarded Mr. Carnegie took a train for Washington.

CAR WRECKS AUTOMOBILE.

A. T. Nicodemus Is Slightly Injured When His Machine and Trolley Collide in Allegheny.

A collision between an automobile owned by A. T. Nicodemus, 124 Hemlock street, Allegheny, and a trolley car, at Jackson and Monterey streets, Allegheny, yesterday afternoon, resulted in the machine being wrecked, and the owner and a companion being thrown out and slightly injured. Nicodemus was driving down Jackson street and reached Monterey just as an Avalon car was turning the bend. The steps of the car, a large eight-wheeler, caught the rear wheel of the automobile, overturning it.

The owner and his friend, whose name is not known, were slightly stunned and were carried into a nearby drug store. After receiving medical aid they were able to go to their homes. The automobile was hauled to a repair shop.

SLEEPS SOUNDLY BESIDE CORPSE OF HIS BROTHER

Latrobe Youth Shoots Himself, but Two Occupants of Room Fail to Hear Shot.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LATROBE, PA., April 8.—James Forbes, a youth of 18 years, awoke this morning and found he was covered with blood, reaching out his hand he touched the dead body of his brother John. Crazed from fear the young man jumped from the bed and with a quick glance discerned a hole in the head of his elder brother, and the bed clothes and the wall bespattered with blood. At the dead man's side lay an emoty 32 calibre rifle.

James called his uncle, who slept in the same room in another bed. Neither of the two had heard a sound during the entire night, and were perplexed as to how the shooting occurred without their knowledge. The belief is held by some that murder was committed, while others believe it is a case of suicide. Corner Wynn is investigating, but has made no statement yet regarding the course of the investigation.

John Forbes was 24 years old, and was the son of Alexander Forbes, a wealthy farmer. He was well educated and had ample means. He had been in ill health and for the last few weeks appeared to be brooding over this fact.

TORNADO IN TWO STATES.

DEWEY STATION, ILL., April 8.—Four persons were injured, one house was overturned and considerable damage was done to trees and roofs by a severe windstorm which swept over a small area today.

MURDERED MAN'S FUNERAL EXHAUSTS CARRIAGE SUPPLY

The funeral of Angelo Cappabianca, the Braddock Italian who was murdered at Peters Creek Thursday evening, was the greatest demonstration of mourning among foreigners in the history of Braddock. Services were conducted at the Italian Church of St. Mary of Mt. Carmel by the Rev. Father Beneventano. The dead man had belonged to two Italian societies, and both of these had bands in the funeral procession. There were over 50 carriages, and the supply of vehicles in all the neighboring towns was exhausted.

MASKED ROBBERS PROVE TO BE VERY POOR MARKSMEN

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—(Special.)—Three masked men ran into the saloon of William Keenan at Twenty-fourth and Lombard street, a few minutes before midnight last night and ordered the dozen or so patrons in the place to hold up their hands and shell out. Then the robbers began to shoot. They were awful marksmen and the best they could do after firing several dozen bullets was to hit one of their comrades. Then the two unwounded tried to get away with the injured fellow, but the police got him.

LEATHER-LUNGED INFANTS OUT IN FORCE AT REVIVAL

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—(Special.)—It was babies day at the Torrey-Alexander mission today. Indefatigable infants with leathern lungs, tea rose complexioned infants with cherubic smiles, sensible infants sleeping peacefully with their tiny little fists all doubled up—a regular nursery full of them, went to hear the evangelist, but while their mothers listened to Dr. Torrey in the armory these babies were in charge of nurses in the room behind the scenes.

TYPHOID FEVER PATIENTS FILL THE HOSPITALS

In the Various Institutions a Grand Total of 421 Cases Are Being Treated.

As a result of the typhoid fever epidemic the hospitals of Pittsburgh and Allegheny are rapidly being filled with patients. Since April 2 there have been 421 typhoid fever patients admitted to the hospitals in the two cities. Yesterday three patients died from the disease, and about 100 new cases developed. The number of patients at the various hospitals are as follows:

Allegheny General	93
Mercy	59
Pittsburgh Hospital	55
South Side	42
West Penn	66
St. Francis	15
St. Johns	47
Passavant	15
Homeopathic	26

DEATHS.

CARL N. FULLMER, aged 21, 230 Emerson street.
CARRIE P. WOLF, aged 22, 198 South Euclid avenue, at Pittsburgh hospital.
MICHAEL KASANICK, aged 34, 1830 Forbes street, at the Mercy hospital.

As there was no mail delivery yesterday the officers of the bureau of health were unable to learn the exact number of cases that developed during the day, but the inspectors said there will be almost 100 new cases reported this morning.

Two physicians reported two cases yesterday in person. Both cases are in the Twenty-third ward. Of the patients in the Allegheny General hospital most live in Allegheny, showing that residents of the North Side are also in the midst of an epidemic. St. Johns hospital of Allegheny has a large list of typhoid fever, most of whom reside on the North Side.

The 66 cases in the West Penn hospital is the largest number in any of the Pittsburgh hospitals. The nurses at the hospitals have been working day and night during the last week. Unless the epidemic is checked this week the hospitals will be filled to their capacities.

Dr. E. G. Matson, city bacteriologist, says the citizens of Pittsburgh should use extraordinary care in preparing foods.

"All water used for cooking and drinking purposes should be boiled," he said.

MURDERER ASKS GOVERNOR TO LET HIM BE HANGED

ATLANTA, GA., April 8.—(Special.)—Gov. Terrill has received a letter from J. C. Rawlings, under sentence of death for the murder of the Carter children, asking that the governor grant no more reprieves or respites, as he is tired of the whole affair and wishes to be hanged on May 4. There is every prospect of his unique request of the governor being fulfilled.

SEALED LID AT M'KEES ROCK IS PERCEPTIBLY PRIED UP

The lid at McKees Rocks, which was said to be hermetically sealed, yesterday tilted visibly. Speakeasies in Chartiers and Island avenues were doing a good spring business, and the clatter of poker chips fell on the ears of all but the police. Members of the sporting fraternity expressed confidence that the lid would stay off.

It is variously reported that the loan will bear 4½ and 5 per cent interest, the emission price being 90 or 92, with 1½ per cent commission.

DOWIE'S BRAIN IS QUITE CLEAR

Gets Clean Bill of Health From a Famous English Alienist In Mexico.

MIRACLE HE IS TO PERFORM

John Alexander Dowie, the deposed prophet of Zion City, Ill., has submitted himself to a week's examination as to his sanity by an alienist in Mexico because his wife and the faithful believed him crazy, says Frederick Gustav Hendrickson, who has power of attorney for "Elijah III.," and passed through Pittsburgh last night en route from New York to Chicago.

"Two weeks ago in San Luis Potosi, a little Mexican village where he could avoid publicity, Dowie allowed himself to be put under surveillance by a great English alienist now in Mexico, and was pronounced absolutely sane and rational," said the Dowie representative. "Many among his faithful believed him crazy, and the idea grew because Mrs. Dowie fostered it. I had the pleasure of sending a telegram to the prophet's wife announcing the prophet to be sane. Mrs. Dowie thereupon renewed her allegiance.

Elder Hendrickson left Dowie in Mexico eight days ago, and hurried to New York to safeguard Dowie's speculative enterprises in Wall street, as margins were being frantically demanded by brokerage houses who had become frightened at the conflict in Zion.

Satisfied the Brokers.

The Zionite gave it to be understood he had been successful and had turned the financial tide during his two days' stay in Wall street.

"I am now going to the erstwhile 'city of the just,' but which now seems to be permeated by the unjust," continued Elder Hendrickson, earnestly, "to prepare the way for the prophet, who has only lost the reincarnation of Elijah for the far nobler mantle of Moses—to lead his people out of doubt and despair. Verily, I will confound them and open their eyes—not by signs or wonders, but by an official statement of Dowie's financial condition in Wall street. Like everywhere else in the world, 'money talks' in Zion City, and Dowie will be found to be a faithful steward of the Shiloh house.

"That Dowie lost $1,200,000 or tried to introduce polygamy, is all rot; that his investments are sound but greatly tied up, is true. That he is a sane man is a medical fact, and he will astonish the world with his five books on Moses—full of new revelations—that accord with his doctrine.

Spiritual Visitor to a Cell.

"They have been brought from a Grecian monastery—the oldest in the world—by an anchorite whom the spirit visited in his cell and impelled to find out Dowie. The precious words are on parchment, and their translation will bring the spiritual world to his feet.

"But to come back to business," and Dowie's lawyer easily threw off the air of the devotee. "The financial interests of Zion are safeguarded by $35,000,000 of real estate which Dowie has created out of a barren waste. The younger element, the rebels, exist far and wide this. Regardless of his prophetic status, or his personal characteristics, Zion City must bow to Dowie, simply because he is the cleverest financier in the known world. We admit that Zion City and its people face wreck and ruin unless Dowie's genius averts disaster. This is the 'miracle' that will herald his appearance in Zion City.

"No portent of the skies or supernatural vision is meant by Dowie when he says a miracle will coincide with his arrival. He means that his people's hearts will be illumined by a flash of light from above and the darkness which envelopes them will be lifted."

THOUSANDS PROMISE TO STAND BY GLENN VOLIVA

John Alexander Dowie Is Strongly Denounced in an Open Meeting at Shiloh Tabernacle.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ZION CITY, ILL., April 8.—With the approval of thousands of Dowieites in open meeting today, Gen. Overseer Glenn Voliva denounced John Alexander Dowie as a spendthrift, liar and traitor and was in turn promised support as leader of the Christian Catholic church in Zion, to fill the place of the founder of the church, now deposed and on his way from Mexico to fight for his rights.

When, after denouncing Dowie, Overseer Voliva suddenly demanded a decision of the audience which crowded Shiloh tabernacle as to who should be their future leader, the 6,000 persons in the auditorium rose as one person and signified their willingness to follow Voliva to the end.

Voliva told the audience of the "deplorable" condition he found on Zion when he arrived a month ago from Australia and took up the management of Zion's interest at Dowie's command.

When most bitter in the denunciation of his former master, there was no one in the tabernacle who showed more approval of Voliva's remarks than Overseer Mrs. Jane Dowie. When Voliva angrily exclaimed: "I will see that all the costly furniture and expensive library adorning Dowie's Zion City residence and which were purchased by that hypocrite while many of his people were in need of food are sold and the money turned into Zion storehouses," Mrs. Dowie half rose and with her voice and hands loudly applauded the words.

Voliva requested all present to keep away from the railway station next Tuesday when Dowie reaches Zion City. "I don't want you to go down there and listen to his egotistical harangue," said Voliva. "If he should try any of his spectacular antics on his arrival here, we will soon put a stop to it. He cannot hold a meeting in Shiloh tabernacle, because we won't let him. Should he succeed in securing a house in which to hold a meeting to address the people of Zion, I want you all to remain at home and not attend the meeting."

After the meeting the 250 Zion guards employed to keep order in the city, were sworn in to support Voliva in all his undertaking and all took the oath of allegiance, except one.

A message was received from Dowie this afternoon, stating he would reach Zion City Tuesday morning, and ordering Shiloh house, his residence in Zion City, to be prepared for his home coming. Voliva, after reading this message, vowed that Dowie would not be allowed to enter the door of what formerly was his Zion City home.

DOWIE'S FOLLOWERS HOLD GREAT MEETING IN TEXAS

Erstwhile Leader of Zion City Bitterly Disparages His Wife in Talk at San Antonio.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., April 8.—John Alexander Dowie and his party left tonight for Chicago. The train was delayed at San Antonio and this was taken advantage of by the local Zionites who arranged for a meeting at which Dr. Dowie was to speak.

When Dowie entered the hall, the audience rose and sang a hymn of praise. Dowie walked down the center aisle, bowing and uttering "God be with thee." For 10 minutes, Dowie and the audience prayed together to banish the devil from Zion. Then Dowie told his story to the expectant people. His entire address was centered about the subjects of polygamy and the conduct of his wife. The audience was with him in all that he said, even when he bitterly disparaged Mrs. Dowie.

Deacon Lewis and Deacon Peters spoke of the unwifely conduct of Mrs. Dowie, which they characterized as almost beyond human endurance. Throughout this testimony, the audience sprinkled exclamations of "Amen" and "Yes, yes."

Dowie then declared that so long as breath remained in his body he would fight for the rehabilitation of Zion. After the benediction, the audience filed past Dowie and shook his hand, each reiterating an assurance of loyalty.

When Dowie returned to his hotel he was shown the following telegram from Chicago: "At Zion City today, everybody was for Voliva."

Dowie seemed somewhat shocked at the message, but declared it would be unwise for him to make any comments on it at the present time, owing to the fact it might betray his plan of battle.

DECLINES TO DISCUSS TRIP.

Robert Pitcairn Makes No Statement on Conference With Eastern Officials on Liberty Street Matter.

Robert Pitcairn, resident assistant to the president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who has been in New York since last Wednesday conferring with high officials of the road, returned home last night. He would give out no statement regarding his visit, but it is understood it was in reference to the summary order from city officials to begin work by May 6 on the removal of the Liberty street tracks.

If the Pennsylvania company decides that it will not comply with the terms of the contract and does not begin work by the time specified, the city will put on a force of men and the tracks will be immediately taken up. Then the street will be repaved from curb to curb and all this expense must be borne, under the contract, by the railroad company. It is not thought likely that the railroad officials will refuse to obey the order.

HEAVY IMPORTS OF ORE.

Pig Iron and Raw Material for Iron and Steel Brought in During March Broke Records.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(Special.)—While the exports of finished iron and steel products broke all records last month, the imports of various raw materials were also the heaviest in the history of the iron and steel trade. The total imports of iron ore, manganese ore, iron pyrites and pig iron, aggregated 154,071 tons. In February they amounted to 140,541 tons. These figures only refer to the arrivals via New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Although the March imports of iron ore came chiefly from Cuba, large quantities also arrived from Europe for use in Pittsburgh plants.

The most marked increases over the previous month's imports were in manganese ore and pig iron, chiefly on Pittsburgh account, including 96,387 tons of iron ore, 21,590 tons of manganese ore, and 29,499 tons of pig iron, the last a gain of nearly 100 per cent over February.

PRICES ON BOURSE RECEDE.

Copper Group Remains Strong, London Issues Causing Some Inelasticity.

PARIS, April 8.—(Special Cable.)—The bourse has been very irregular despite easy money, and the reduction of the British bank rate. Prices mostly have receded. Although exact information is wanting regarding the rate of issue and the interest of the new Russian loan, arbitrage operations have been numerous in Russian 1904 bonds, which have the privilege of subscription to the new issue.

The copper group remained strong. The recent big issues in London are mainly responsible for the present inelasticity.

WOMEN WEEP TOGETHER, BUT JUDGE IS HARDHEARTED

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—(Special.)—Three members of one family, mother, daughter and cousin, all charged with shoplifting, wept and wailed before Magistrate Eisenbrown in the Central police station today. The prisoners were Mrs. Jennie Hackett, a comely widow of 30 years; Jennie, her 14-year-old daughter, and Minnie Coleman, a pretty 22-year-old girl. All were stylishly gowned. After the mother offered to go to prison if her child was released, the daughter made a similar proposition, and Miss Coleman pleaded that Mrs. Hackett was to be remarried next week, the entire family was held for trial.

STEAMER RESCUES FIVE SAILORS FROM OCEAN

YARMOUTH, N. S., April 8.—Five survivors of the coasting schooner W. E. and W. L. Tuck, which they abandoned off Cape Sable last Thursday, were landed here today by the American steam trawler Spray, together with the body of Charles Wilstead, the steward of the vessel, who perished in the ship's long boat after many hours of exposure. The others also suffered intensely, as they were all thinly clad, because of their hasty escape from the vessel. The Spray picked them up yesterday afternoon.

Railroad Will Reward a Boy Hero.

GREENVILLE, PA., April 8.—(Special.)—Officials of the Franklin branch of the Lake Shore railroad have intimated the company is about to reward Clyde Kirk, the 12-year-old boy living at Hadley, this county, who prevented a fast train from running into a washout last week. Kirk discovered the undermined portion of track and flagged the train just in time to avert a disaster.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8.—L. W. Hoch, a traveling man aged 40 years, whose residence is in Worcester, Mass., committed suicide last night at a hotel. His body was found this afternoon. He left a note stating this was his third attempt at suicide, his two previous attempts being made in El Paso last week. Hoch worried over business troubles.

GREENVILLE, PA., April 8.—(Special.)—A stick of dynamite exploded in the hands of Daniel Mushrush, a farmer, yesterday, with the result that one hand was blown entirely off and he almost bled to death while being brought here in a buggy to obtain surgical attention. Mushrush was blasting stumps and picked up the dynamite when it failed to explode promptly.

NEW MUNICIPAL BROOMS ARE USED

Police of Two Cities Raid Many Alleged Disorderly Places. Make Many Arrests.

FATHER AND CHILD IN THE NET

New brooms were vigorously handled in Pittsburgh and Allegheny yesterday. Beginning at 1 a. m. and continuing throughout the day many alleged speakeasies, gambling and disorderly houses were raided.

A sensational incident occurred at the Penn avenue police station during the hearing of Clem Banks, a negro, charged with keeping a disorderly house at 53½ Grant boulevard. Stephena Saunders, another negro, of 525 Jones avenue, testified that his 15-year-old daughter Annie, who was captured in the raid on Banks' house, had been working in the East End. On Saturday he sent her to her employer to collect $9 due for wages. He did not hear of her again until she was arrested. The girl asked to be heard and made a counter-charge against her father, giving that as her reason for refusing to return home. Inspector Boyle at once placed Saunders under arrest and father and daughter were locked up pending an investigation. Banks was fined $25.

Robert White and J. C. Kemp, negroes, were held for court by Magistrate Negley on a charge of keeping a gambling house at 313 Larimer avenue. Twenty-six negroes, one negress, one white man and two white women captured in the raid were fined $1 each.

At Central station Annie Grossman was held for court on a charge of keeping a disorderly house at 38 Tunnel street and six men visitors were fined $1 each; Lillian Snyder of 29 Federal street paid $50 and four visitors $10 and costs each; Marshall Adams of 1311 Wilson street and B. A. Early of 1426 Poplar alley, both negroes, were fined $25 apiece, while six men found in Adams' house were fined $10, and 10 men and seven women in Early's house $1 and costs each.

During the day William Gordon and 23 male visitors were arrested at 10 Third avenue; Kate Sullivan and five men at the rear of 645 Sixth avenue; John Duncosky and eight men at 2014 Sidney street, South Side; John Suskin and 25 visitors at 83 South Nineteenth street.

Louis Mandor, who keeps a restaurant at 1204 Penn avenue, which was raided Saturday night, was discharged. It developed that he was in bed when the trouble occurred which led to the calling in of the police.

Allegheny police raided the shanty boat of James Scarlet at the foot of Chartiers street and captured the proprietor, six visitors and much beer and whisky. At C. C. Grove's boathouse at Beaver avenue and Rebecca street, back of the Tide Coal Company's wharf, Grove and six visitors were arrested. The "Sons of Murphy club," in Carter alley, was visited and John Murphy and three visitors captured.

BLESSING OF THE PALMS IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Other Churches Also Commemorate the Story of Our Savior's Triumphal Entry Into Jerusalem.

Palm Sunday was celebrated yesterday in the Roman Catholic, Episcopal and Lutheran churches. Thousands of Catholics were seen on the streets, the men carrying a sprig of the blessed palm in their buttonholes, women with a piece pinned to their corsage or carrying fronds in their hands.

The celebration of Palm Sunday in the Catholic church is particularly solemn, it being in commemoration of the Saviour's entry into Jerusalem a few days before His death, when the populace sang praise and strewed palms before Him, as he rode into the city. Palm Sunday is a day of semi-rejoicing to be followed immediately by the sorrowful week of the crucifixion. The blessing of the palms is an annual ceremony in the Catholic churches.

An especially beautiful Palm Sunday service was held at Grace Reformed church, Dithridge and Bayard streets. Lillies, daffodils and large palms made up the decorations. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh, baptized several infants and then received into full membership 23 adults by confirmation. There were also four adult baptisms. The reception of new members was followed by holy communion. On the evening of Good Friday the choir of Grace church, assisted by other singers, will give the oratorio "Stabat Mater," and on the evening of Easter Sunday will render Rodgers' cantata, "The New Life."

At Trinity Lutheran church, Allegheny, Palm Sunday was fittingly observed by large congregations. Last night a sacred cantata, written especially for the occasion by Dr. J. M. Blose, organist and musical director, was finely rendered by the choir and chorus.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR THE FRICK MEMORIAL

WOOSTER, O., April 8.—(Special.)—Ground was broken yesterday for the $60,000 addition to the Frick Memorial library of the University of Wooster. This is to be erected by H. C. Frick as a memorial to his parents. The present building having been found too small, Mr. Frick volunteered to build an addition the same size as the main structure. A contract will be let May 1 for a new dormitory to cost $50,000. The new gymnasium to be erected by the alumni will also be completed before fall.

CONGREGATION IS LEFT IN COMPLETE DARKNESS

During service in the Ben Avon Methodist Episcopal church last night the electric lights went out and the church was in total darkness. The congregation was dismissed and experienced some difficulty in passing out. The accident was caused by the breaking of a transformer at the plant of the Ohio Valley Light Company.

Charge Policeman With Killing Man.

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., April 8.—William Cullen, a saloonkeeper at Broadway and Division streets, was shot today and instantly killed by Policeman Owen Feeney. Feeney had ordered Cullen to close his saloon and the shooting is said to have occurred after the saloonkeeper and some of his friends had attacked the policemen and beaten him with his own club.

MANY SUNDAY SIGHT-SEERS AT DREAM CITY

Newest Pleasure Resort Attracting Crowds Even Before Completion—Good Progress on Many Buildings.

Despite the showers and threatening weather thousands of sight-seers visited Dream City yesterday. Last Sunday more than 5,000 people went out the pretty Verona road to see the newest amusement resort growing into a reality, and about the same number braved the inclement weather yesterday to show their interest in the pleasure place. Had the day been fine there would undoubtedly have been twice the previous Sunday crowd at Dream City. This indicates what crowds can visit Dream City when the improved street car service is secured. The street car arrangements are to be completed before the opening on Decoration Day.

The several buildings nearly completed are in the hands of the decorators, and the pretty colors on them gives an incomplete conception of their beauty when the park is ready for visitors. The dams for the boating lake and the Chutes' lagoon are completed, and the planing and sawmill on the ground are turning out decorative forms by the carload. When once the heavier lumber is in position and the workmen and artisans can go ahead without interruption the remaining buildings will spring up as by magic. Mr. W. F. Hamilton, who designed and is building the park, practically lives at Dream City to hurry the work on the numerous structures. The draughtsmen are working day and night on the detail decorations, and all the departments are working overtime to get the park ready for the gala opening.

ROBBINS TAKES ISSUE WITH OHIO OPERATORS

Declares Their Action Is High-Handed, Illegal and Against Public Policy.

Francis L. Robbins, chairman of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, who is confined to his home as a result of the strain he has undergone in the past three weeks, says the resolutions adopted by the Ohio Coal Operators' association on Saturday are not in accordance with the facts. He says:

The interstate movement was not disrupted by me, but terminated Thursday, March 30, when a motion was made by Mr. Winder, chairman of the Ohio operators, and seconded by Cal. Smith, president of the Illinois Operators' association, that the joint convention adjourn sine die. At no time did I make any effort to place any burden upon any state. I simply asked, in the event of no general settlement being reached, that the miners would permit any operator in any or all states to operate their mines if they wished to do so on the scale of 1903, and thus prevent a general suspension of the mines of the country, which would have been a national calamity. The miners did not discuss or take action on my request until the adjournment of the joint convention sine die.

The action of the majority of the Ohio operators in endeavoring to prevent those operators in the state who are ready and willing to sign the scale from operating their mines is a high-handed proceeding, a bad example to their employes and to labor organizations, and is illegal and against public policy. Those of us who have dealt with labor organizations for years and who have been interested in attempting to bring the employer and employed closer together, have always maintained that labor has as much right to organize as capital, but each individual must be permitted to exercise his own rights and must be protected in so doing. And with this in view, if the action of the Ohio operators is to be taken seriously, it shows how inconsistent they are.

STRIKE AT EDNA PLANTS WILL BE BROKEN TODAY

John Wessel Who Was Shot Is Buried, but Responsibility for Death Not Fixed.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

GREENSBURG, April 8.—The strike of the miners at the Edna plants of the Pittsburgh and Baltimore Coal Company, near Adamsburg, it is believed here tonight, will be broken tomorrow. A canvass of the men who have refused to affiliate themselves with the United Mine Workers indicates this. At meetings held today the union organizers were unable to persuade the miners to hold out. Additional deputies will be put on if necessary, but quiet has prevailed since the injunction against the strikers.

John Wessel, who was shot from ambush Friday, was buried this afternoon at the Catholic cemetery near Brush Creek. The priest who said the mass pleaded with the miners to use no violence if the strike continues. Mrs. Wessel is still in a weakened condition. During the funeral services she collapsed several times. Her five-days-old baby is dying for want of proper nourishment.

Joseph Sudinski, Joseph Krak and Albert Vendorf, who were arrested by sheriff's deputies on suspicion, were sweated in the county jail tonight, but they were on their guard and the responsibility for Wessel's death was not fixed.

IRWIN, April 8.—Operators in the Irwin field are optimistic over the strike situation and most of them who gathered here today expressed the opinion that the worst is over and the strike will not extend beyond the three mines where strikes were called.

WHEELING, W. VA., April 8.—President Andrew Watkins of the Fifth Ohio sub-district, United Mine Workers, will tomorrow morning issue a call for a convention of representatives from all of the local unions of No. 8 seam of the south end of the Panhandle district and the south section of Eastern Ohio. They will arrange for a conference with the operators Friday. The scale has been prepared, and is the same as the 1903 scale. Many of the operators have said they will sign. The convention of the north end miners will be held at Canton next Monday. President Watkins says everything looks favorable for a peaceful settlement in the Fifth sub-district.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS WILL NOT ARBITRATE

They Will Today Reject the Proposition of the Miners and Stand Pat.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SCRANTON, PA., April 8.—Reliable information is to the effect that the anthracite operators will tomorrow reject the miners' arbitration proposition, and offer no counter proposition, simply reaffirming their former declaration that all the matters at issue have been arbitrated by the strike commission, and there is no good reason why the award should be disturbed.

The operators will also say that under no consideration would they consent to the recognition and check-off questions, because they are unalterably opposed to the closed shop, in the first case, and because the check-off demand could not legally be granted, even though they were satisfied to grant it, which they are not.

The operators are expected to stand pat on their first offer—a continuation of the commission's award for three years—and take the consequences. The independent operators have notified the big companies that they are ready to follow their lead.

HURRICANE LOSS GROWS.

Over $1,000,000 Worth of Property and 150 Lives Are Lost at Tahiti.

PAPEETE, TAHITI, March 27.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The latest estimate of the number of lives lost in the hurricane of February 7 and 8 is 150. Property loses will aggregate $1,500,000. The British ship County of Roxborough of Glasgow, 2,100 tons, J. E. Leslie, master, was wrecked at Tanaroa, Tuamotu islands, and 10 seamen were drowned. The schooner Tahitienne broke up at seas near the Tuamotu islands and Capt. George Dexter was swept from the wreckage after two days and drowned.

At Anna, the center of the hurricane, a substantial stone structure in which about 45 or 50 persons took refuge, collapsed under the pressure of the heavy seas, causing the death of 38 persons. A Roman Catholic priest, Father Paul, was drowned at Faite. Two Latter Day Saints' missionaries, Bunker and Brewerton, saved their lives by clinging to the tops of cocoanut trees.

ROCKEFELLER IN NEW YORK.

Head of Standard Oil Company Visits His Grandchild for First Time.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(Special.)—With no attempt at secrecy, John D. Rockefeller came to New York last Wednesday morning from Lakewood, N. J. He went directly to the home of his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., No. 15 West Fifty-fourth street, and greeted with much enthusiasm and show of affection, his grandson, John D. Rockefeller, III.

Mr. Rockefeller spent most of the time in the home of his son, but did not keep himself in seclusion. He walked along the sunny side of Fifth avenue, and was greeted by many persons. Mr. Rockefeller's first sight of his grandchild was of great interest to him. He fondled and caressed him with enthusiasm, held him in his arms, remarked how heavy he was and how well he looked, and stroked his fat cheeks and cooed with him.

SAYS ROAD WILL KEEP AGREEMENT

Pennsylvania Official Pleads Ignorance Regarding the Liberty Avenue Tracks.

WILL LOOK UP THE RECORDS

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, April 8.

Joseph T. Richards, chief engineer of maintenance of way for the Pennsylvania railroad, when asked whether the company would carry out its agreement with the city of Pittsburgh and remove its tracks from Liberty avenue, declared, while he had no recollection of the existence of such an agreement, he could state that if it had been made the Pennsylvania would uphold its part.

"Have you been informed," he was asked, "that Pittsburgh has given the Pennsylvania 90 days in which to remove its tracks from Liberty avenue according to the agreement made when it was given elevated rights on the river front?"

"I have not so far," said Mr. Richards, "the matter is news to me entirely. Perhaps the notification has been given, but so far as I know it has not reached the Broad street offices yet." "Well, when the notification does reach Broad street what will be done?"

"The policy of the Pennsylvania railroad aims to prevent quarrels with the various municipalities. It will not enter into a fight with Pittsburgh or any other city. So far as this agreement is concerned the officials at Pittsburgh should be able to discuss it off hand better than anyone in this city. I do not know, really, if there was such an agreement. I would not be in a position to talk on the agreement, if it exists, without consulting the officials at Broad street in charge of such records.

DEAD TAKEN FROM RUINS

The observatory has been destroyed and Signor Matteucci, the director, and the employes had narrow escapes. The restaurant of the Funicular railroad, too, has been obliterated.

Prisoners Went Mad.

Prisoners in jails on the mountainside went mad with terror and mutinied and were only partly quieted by being brought here. But their fears have been communicated to the prisoners here, who may rebel at any moment. The situation is critical.

Breathing is momentarily becoming more difficult because of the poisonous fumes and smoke, while the hot ashes which are still falling tend to make life a burden.

Contrary to expectations, the sea has not yet shown signs of being affected by the phenomena, but fears are entertained that tidal waves may yet come, and many craft have put to sea. Visitors to Naples are avoiding the hotels on the sea front and the people living there are beginning to leave for higher altitudes.

Though there is much misery, up to the present time there have been no fatalities, except at Portici, where an old woman died, supposedly from fright.

The city of Naples bears an aspect of desolation, everything being covered with ashes from the volcano.

The lava destroyed a few houses in a suburb of Torre Annunziata and also the cemetery. Then, fortunately, the flow ceased, as it did also at Torre del Greco. At Pompeii the rivers of lava are less rapid.

Incendescent material has set fire to the village of San Guiseppe.

OBSERVATORY WAS VALUABLE

Warning of Impending Eruptions Have Heretofore Been Given By Observer There.

The royal meteorological observatory on Mount Vesuvius, which was destroyed, was situated nearly 2,000 feet above the level of the sea on Colle Canteroni, a ridge which in past eruptions of the volcano has separated the lava streams into two branches. The scientific deductions made by the observers there have often been the means of warning the people of impending eruptions and doubtless have resulted in the saving of many lives. At the entrance to the observatory was a tablet erected to the memory of the tourists who lost their lives in April, 1872, while watching the eruption from the Atrio del Cavallo crater.

Dispatches from Naples Saturday night mentioned an American engineer named Perret as being with Observer Matteucci.

JEWELRY FIRM IS VICTIM.

A Member of "Store Thieves League" Is Suspected of Stealing Watches from Wholesale Firm.

It now develops that the wholesale jewelry firm of G. B. Barrett & Co. was a victim of the "Store Thieves league." Detectives Eagan and Cole last week secured two watches supposed to have been stolen by Edward Mellon, or Mattern, as the police have it, one of the gang who is now in jail waiting a hearing Wednesday. Mellon was formerly employed by Barrett & Co., but left there last January to work in the department store. Mr. Barrett said last night he did not know the watches were taken from the store, but would look up the numbers of the watches returned to him.

The detectives expect to arrest five persons today. They are employes of another department store in this city, and have been operating with the gang captured by Eagan and Cole. It is said this gang has stolen thousands of dollars' worth of articles from its employers.

GOOD RATE LAW WILL BE PASSED

Differences on Legal Questions in Hepburn Bill to Be Satisfactorily Adjusted.

KNOX'S IDEAS TO PREVAIL

Special Telegram From L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—An effective and constitutional railroad rate regulation law, advocated and signed by a Republican president, passed by a Republican congress and enforced by a Republican interstate commerce commission—that will be the outcome of all this fuss and feathers that is littering up the capitol. The Hepburn bill will be enacted, there has been little doubt of that from the first. It will contain a provision for court review of the findings of the commission, and this provision will embody the views brought forward by Senator Knox. It is probable that the clause will be drafted by Mr. Knox, but in any event it will be his thought.

A disposition has been manifested by some senators who attended the recent White House conference to accept the Knox modification of the administration amendment approved at that meeting. Others will likely follow suit, and enough votes are already counted to assure the adoption of the Knox idea. Another suggestion of Senator Knox that will be adopted is that giving the shipper the right to appeal to the court if dissatisfied with a ruling of the commission.

Bailey's Amendment to Fail.

There is little prospect of the adoption by the senate of Senator Bailey's proposition for prohibiting temporary injunctions suspending the orders of the commission pending final hearing by the courts. This has been declared by the best lawyers of the senate to be unconstitutional, although it has been recently reported that President Roosevelt has agreed to accept it if the Democrats will line up for the Long amendment covering the court review feature. The President's proposal is said to be to place the Bailey provision in the bill, with a qualifying clause to the effect that if it is found to be unconstitutional it shall not invalidate the entire act.

No danger exists of a serious break in the Republican party. This rather queer alignment on this question does not mean that some senators are deserting the party or that they are trying to defeat the policies of the President. These policies are upheld by every senator, Republican and Democrat alike. They are unanimous in their desire to enact a law to cure the existing evils in the transportation business of the country. They are practically unanimous on their advocacy of the Hepburn bill in all its main features. The differences are those of opinion upon questions of constitutional law.

Purely a Legal Question.

There is an apparent incongruity in a situation which arrays the President against men like Root, Taft, Knox, Crane and Spooner. It is rather inexplicable, and yet it is the fact. The President has seen fit to take the advice of Dolliver, Clapp and Long, in preference to that of those others, who have won reputations as the greatest lawyers of the country. And yet the President would be the first to resent any reflection upon their motives. They are above that. Their records need no defense.

So it is all a matter of deep legal questions and one for the lawyers to unravel. It is the general opinion here that they will do it, and that before long they will meet on common ground and pass the bill with such changes as will make it effective, and proof against the closest scrutiny of the supreme court.

Prospective Heiress to Large Amount Wants to Have Something More Than Mere Reports.

NEW YORK, April 8.—(Special.)—"When I get the cash right in my hands then I'll feel sure that it is true."

Just a week ago Mollie Mayers, who keeps a small corset and glove store at Clinton and Broome streets, received a letter from a relative, that she had been remembered to the extent of about $800,000 in the will of her uncle.

But Miss Mayers isn't deluding herself with dreams of a luxurious idleness, for she says if the money comes she will have a shop in Fifth avenue. "And then I shall call myself 'Mlle. Mayers, corsetiere.'"

EMPLOYES GO INTO THE ICE BUSINESS

Establish Co-operative System, and Will Put 25 Wagons on the Streets Today.

DEALERS STILL SHOW FIGHT

The fight between the Ice Dealers' league and the Ice Wagon Drivers and Helpers' union assumed an entirely different aspect yesterday. At a meeting in the morning the drivers decided to go into business for themselves, and this morning there will appear on the streets of Pittsburgh and the South Side 25 ice wagons manned and operated by the union. Arrangements have been made to obtain two carloads of ice each day, and it is expected that in a few days more will be available and more wagons will be put on the streets. Frank W. Poulison, president of the local union, also says the Penn Ice Company has conceded the men's demands, and will put 20 wagons in the East End and Wilkinsburg, manned by union men.

"We have hired 25 wagons and have contracted for the ice," Mr. Poulison said, "and I think there is no doubt but we will succeed. We will be content with covering Pittsburgh proper and the South Side for the present, but as we are able will put wagons in Allegheny."

"Our service in Pittsburgh, Allegheny and the South Side is as nearly perfect as it was before the strike," said Manager Dunn of the Consolidated Ice Company last night. "We are experiencing some difficulty in the East End, but the delivery there is 75 per cent perfect. We have established an open shop permanently, and you cannot make it too strong in saying we will only deal with the men as individuals. When they are ready to work on that basis we will take them back."

Inquiry among a number of the private consumers yesterday established the fact that unless there is a change very soon the predicted ice famine will be a reality. Saturday being a warm day, the demand for ice was unusually large for this season, and many found it almost impossible to obtain it.

The hearing of the injunction proceedings against the strikers will be continued by Judge Shafer today, and each side asserts it has no doubt as to the result, both claiming a victory.

FOREIGN CONCERNS WILL WORK TOGETHER

Westinghouse Interests Perfect Arrangements With a Large Electrical Organization.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, April 8.—The Westinghouse interests have perfected arrangements with one of the largest electrical organizations in Italy in order to act jointly with them in undertaking some of the huge contracts now pending in that part of the world for the electrification of steam railways.

A combination has been effected between the $5,000,000 concern which takes care of the Westinghouse electrical business in continental Europe, outside of Germany, and the $7,500,000 Allanese company of which Dr. George Finzi, the pioneer in Italy of the use of single phase, is the head.

Under this alliance, or working agreement, electrical installations will be carried out by the two organizations together. The installation of single phase electric railways will bear the name Westinghouse-Finzi, under the patents of the Westinghouse company and of Dr. Finzi.

News of a number of interesting foreign contracts secured by the Westinghouse people reached here today. One of the principal contracts came from Japan and is for the electrical equipment of a big powerhouse to be installed for the purpose of operating the Nankai railway—a privately owned steam line running between Osaka and Yakyama.

The British order for various Westinghouse equipment, etc., include substantial requisitions from the municipal street railway authorities of Walthamstow and Croyden, near London.

Two 1,000 kilowatt generators have been ordered through Noyes & Co. of Melbourne for installation in the Broken Hill Proprietary Company's big silver mines in New South Wales.

Other Australian contracts include grading machinery for the harbor plant at Lyttleton, New Zealand, and further equipment to be put in the electric lighting and garbage destructor plants at Christchurch.

Later, when the diocese of Oregon was established, he became its bishop. He is said to have been the oldest bishop in the United States.

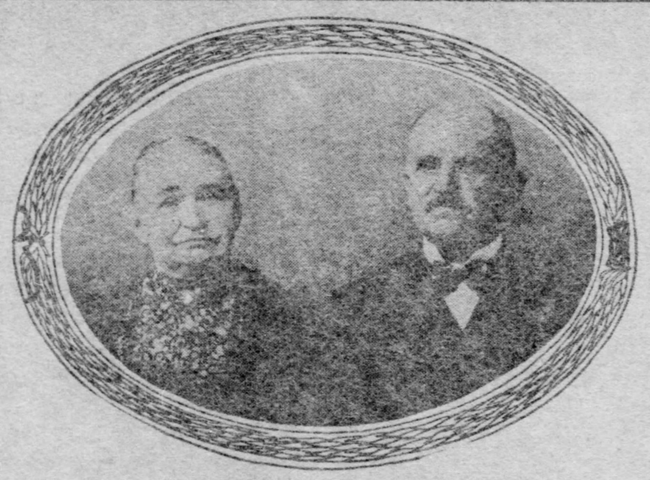
CELEBRATE HALF CENTURY OF HAPPY WEDDED LIFE



MR. AND MRS. JOHN KLEPPNER.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kleppner of 613 Winfield street, celebrated their golden wedding on Saturday. Invitations were extended to the most intimate friends of the family, who presented congratulations and quite a number of handsome gifts. Mr. Kleppner was born in Germany in 1832 and came to this country in 1851 and worked on the river between Pittsburgh and St. Louis. He became associated in business with Phelix Lafferty in Smithfield street. After Mr. Lafferty's death Mr. Kleppner started in business for himself and continued until his retirement, 18 years ago. In 1856 Mr. Kleppner married Miss Catherine Luh, who was born in Germany in 1838 and came to this country in 1853. Thirteen children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Kleppner, of whom five are still living—Mrs. Conrad Hopengardner, Washington, Ia.; Mrs. George Hilliard, Mrs. M. D. NEW CITY COUNCILS ARE TO MEET TODAY

Walters Says Fight on Clark Is Abandoned—Committees Will Be Announced.

Both branches of the new councils will hold their first regular meeting today, select in the afternoon and common at night. The leaders of select have practically decided to hold night sessions hereafter, but the time of meeting cannot be changed until the rules are revised.

President Walters of select, and President Brand of common, will today announce the appointment of the members of the standing committees. As published yesterday in The Gazette, President Walters will leave the selection of the chairmen of the select branch committees to members of the committees themselves, but Mr. Brand has declared that he will appoint the chairmen of the common council committees himself instead of allowing the members to elect.

He will designate the members he has selected as chairmen by naming them first on the committees. The selection of the chairmen by the presidents of councils is merely a custom, and the fact that President Walters has waived this privilege may start a contest over the chairmenships in the common council committees.

President Walters of select held a conference with Republican leaders yesterday, at which it was decided that no opposition would be made today to the confirmation of James W. Clark, appointed director of public works.

"We have decided to vote for the confirmation of all of Mayor Guthrie's appointments, that of Clark included," said President Walters, "but we could have produced evidence that Clark attempted to unduly influence members of councils. The consensus of opinion was, however, that we should not offer any opposition, that the people had elected Mr. Guthrie and that we should confirm the men whom Mr. Guthrie chose to serve in his cabinet."

FISH CLERKS GO FREE.

City Officials Gain Their Object and the Five Levington Employes Are Released.

The five clerks employed by the Levinson brothers, who refused to vacate the two fish stands in the Diamond market Saturday afternoon, by order of Director Clark, were given a hearing in Central police court yesterday morning. The men said they were told to stay at the stands, and as the arresting officer said they did not resist, that they were taken into custody to obtain possession of the stands. As that result has been accomplished Magistrate Kirby discharged the men.

The Levinsons threaten to bring suit to regain possession of the stands.

HE DOUBTS GENUINENESS OF BETTER HALF'S PRESENTS

A dispute over the genuineness of meerschaum pipes led Conrad Schmidt and his wife to No. 7 police court yesterday. When Mrs. Schmidt returned from a trip to Germany recently she brought her husband a couple of pipes as reminders of the old country. They were presented to him in the presence of a few friends Saturday night. Schmidt doubted they were the real things, intimating they were bought in New York. The argument reached such a state that the police were called in. The husband's fine and costs footed up close to the $20 mark.

Primitive Methodists to Confer.

The Pittsburgh district conference of the Primitive Methodist church will be held in the Cobden street church at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. tomorrow. The Rev. Dr. Iwison will preach and W. H. Natick will conduct the service. On Wednesday the Sunday school convention will be held at the same place.

DELEGATES DECIDE TO ERECT LABOR TEMPLE

Union Men Form Organization and Building to Cost $100,000 Will Be Constructed.

At a meeting of the representatives of the labor unions of this district yesterday, at 416 Wood street, the Union Labor Temple Company was organized. This organization will erect a $100,000 temple. The building will comprise lodge rooms and an auditorium with a seating capacity of 3,500.

The representatives present yesterday decided that each union shall elect a delegate, who will be a member of the finance committee of the Union Labor Temple Company. Each member must possess one share of stock of the company. The finance committee will draw up the by-laws and make application for a charter for the company. The next meeting will be held April 22.

FAMILY IS REUNITED.

Benedicts, Separated for Many Years, Have All Been Located and Reunion Is to Follow.

After many years Mrs. O. M. Hezlop and her brother, William Benedict of Allegheny avenue, Emsworth, have succeeded in locating another brother, Herbert Benedict of Grafton, W. Va. He was the youngest of five children and had not been heard from since a separation followed the death of their parents, when all were little children.

Two years ago William Benedict found Mrs. Hezlep after 25 years. The two others are dead. Two weeks ago the Benedicts also located their father's only sister and recently William Benedict left for Providence, Canada, where their father's only living brother lives. In the last two months all the living relatives of the Benedicts have been found, many at Butler, Pa. A family reunion will be held, probably in Butler, on the arrival of the brother from Grafton.

MEETS WITH COUNTRYMEN PARTS WITH HIS ROLL

When Frank Renardo, an Italian from Monongah, W. Va., arrived in the city Saturday evening, he met three countrymen who offered to show him about the city. Renardo had $100 when he started out and nothing when the pilgrimage ended. He told Policeman Angelo that before starting they all put their watches and money into a blue cotton handkerchief. Renardo's $100 going into the general pool. For fear of a holdup it was decided it would be safer for one man to carry the bundle. Renardo was given the bundle. He opened it after he had lost his friends on the South Side and found it contained a few pieces of paper.

McGonnegle of the Fortieth ward headed the paper with a promise of $100, and a total of $700 has already been subscribed. The bridge will cost $2,500.

The body was found under the dam at the spot where the accident occurred. The rescue party worked all night.

CONSECRATION SEEMS FAR OFF

Unless Catholics Show More Liberality Cathedral May Not Open for Another Year.

DEBT STILL ENCUMBERS IT

Unless the Roman Catholics of the Pittsburgh diocese come forward faster with their contributions the new cathedral may not be consecrated for a year. There is much disappointment at the delay in consecrating the edifice. To no man is the disappointment greater than to Bishop Canevin. On his way back from Rome the bishop was thinking of the cathedral, hoping to be able to consecrate it soon. It was seen to be impossible to have the ceremony near Christmas time, and the bishop built his hopes upon Easter. Now the consecration seems to be as far off as it was last summer and all because the sum of $100,000 still due the contractors has not been paid. A church to be consecrated must be free of debt.

Two weeks ago the bishop issued an appeal to the clergy and laity of the diocese. There have been some responses, but they are coming in slowly. There are said to be 100 Catholics who have not contributed who could each give a check for $1,000, and in three weeks' time not miss the money.

Among some Catholics there is an idea that the people who will belong to the parish of which the cathedral is the church ought to complete the edifice, forgetting that many members of that parish have already contributed largely of their means and that they will be called on for further pecuniary sacrifices when it comes to building the school house and the parsonage.

In some parishes pastors are taking up collections for the completion of the cathedral, but many parishes are already so heavily in debt that the bishop does not desire that they be taxed further, although contributions will be welcomed from individuals in those parishes.

As members of the clergy have pointed out, the cathedral could be consecrated in two months if Catholics were to unite in one vigorous effort to pay off the debt. There are 75,000 Catholic families in the diocese, including foreign families. Supposing that one-third of these could not be reached at all, there would be 50,000 left, of whom 25,000, it is thought, could easily spare $2 each and 25,000 $1 each, which would raise $75,000. Of the 50,000 it is estimated that at least 10,000 could give $5 or $10 without missing it. Prominent Protestants have offered Bishop Canevin liberal sums for the cathedral, but he has not accepted them, although he is deeply grateful, for the bishop is said to think that the Catholics of the great Pittsburgh diocese are well able to build their cathedral, especially as the greatest part of the cost of site and structure has been paid out of the proceeds of the old cathedral property acquired by Catholics now dead and gone who built and supported a cathedral when Catholic prosperity was not so great as now.

Fight Will Be Made for Transfers.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 8.—(Special.)—"No more concessions, privileges or franchises for the street railroad company and 27 tickets for $1 and universal transfers are granted" is the slogan adopted by a majority of the city councilmen at a meeting held last night. At present one-half of the city cannot get transfers to the other half.

Offering for Famine Sufferers.

The Rev. George Shaffer, pastor of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal church, lectured on "Japanese Life and Conditions" last night, and the offering was for the Japanese famine sufferers. He said the "Yankees of the orient" are now a world power, and that they outrank the Chinese from every standpoint. The lecture was illustrated with stereopticon views.

Say Naiome Shot at Woman.

The detectives last night arrested Tomasi Naiome, an Italian, at 6 Chatham street, who is said to have shot at and struck Ducrezzia Odivellia, an Italian woman. The police say the woman and man had some words and that he drew his revolver, and after knocking her down, fired at her.

A Look at Various Good Table Linens.

Now that moving is over, and in many instances the Spring housecleaning is being finished, nothing is more natural than for the housewife to suggest to her husband that it would be a very pleasing innovation if a lot of new table linens were brought in. It is her prerogative to have the last word regarding household matters, and it will do no good for the gentleman who carries the purse to knock—linens must be bought and that's the end of it.

We don't know where you'd find a better stock of linens than right here in our Linen Division of main floor, East. We are very sure—very sure indeed—that nowhere will you find such low prices. The books of the Pittsburg Custom House will show that we are the heaviest importers of linens in Western Pennsylvania—that's why we are always underprice.

If your Easter Suit needs the accompaniment of a waist, the opportunity is yours today to purchase the most gracious waists—waists that abound in beauty and style—for sums far beneath what the waists are worth.

Waists of fancy design are in high favor at present. The Eton suit is dominating the world of fashionable dress now. The jaunty little Eton jacket must have 'neath it a pretty waist, and that waist may be either cotton, lace or silk. The more lacy and fluffy the more becoming. And, of course, you must have plenty of changes in waists.

The kind we tell you of today, for the prices mentioned above, are just such waists as the Eton jacket should be glad to recognize. They are not gaudy, but are trimmed enough to be very, very pretty. Of course the woman who will have no other waist but that which is plain, can find her ideas well represented in the collection.

Through our close relations with manufacturers we are able to buy now and again some dozens here, other dozens there, all for splendid concessions, and it is in this way that we are enabled to make an Easter offering of such engaging merit as to warrant your early attendance today.

POINT BREEZE CONGREGATION NEARLY LOSES ITS SILVERWARE

Thief Gains Entrance Through Basement and Has It All Packed Up and Ready to Carry Away. Is Recovered by Officers.

Members of the Point Breeze Presbyterian church will probably be surprised to learn this morning that for a time Saturday night all of the silverware in the church was in the hands of a thief, and that he would probably have gotten away with it but for the suspicions he aroused in the mind of Policeman William Jones. Jones found Harry Ellsworth in a lumberyard along the Pennsylvania railroad, near Station street, and decided he was worth some attention. When he searched him 10 dozen silver spoons and a silver butter knife were found. These were later identified as belonging to the Point Breeze congregation.

The policeman ran across Jones soon after midnight. He watched him unnoticed for a time. Ellsworth was prowling among the piles of lumber. The policeman accosted him. Jones had a small rubber bag or curtain and said he was looking for a place to sleep. The officer went through him and found his booty. He was taken to No. 6 police station where, it is said, he confessed.

An investigation at the church showed that Jones had gathered together all of the silverware in the church, including a valuable communion service. He had arranged the different pieces into 18 small bundles preparatory to carrying them away. He had gained admittance through a basement window, using a hammer to knock in the cupboards in which the silver was kept.

Jones is 25 years old and says his home is in Cincinnati. Magistrate Negley sent him to jail in default of $1,000 for a hearing at court.

We trust there is no truth in the report that some of the Republican members of select council will oppose the confirmation of any of Mayor Guthrie's appointees. While one, at least, of these appointees has laid himself open to criticism in connection with the organization of councils, still the fact remains that the people, by a decided vote, have laid on the shoulders of the new mayor the responsibility for the city's administration for the coming three years—and any attempt to interfere with the free exercise of his rights is liable to be misunderstood, and will meet with popular disfavor. Give the administration a free rein and a fair chance, and hold it responsible for results.

Raiding of speakeasies was a feature of Sunday in both Pittsburgh and Allegheny, by way of illustrating the determination to enforce the laws. There is no excuse for the illegal liquor dispensary. During six days of the week an ample number of licensed vendors sell ardent spirits and brewed beverages. In return for their fees, which go to the maintenance of government, they are entitled to the trade and on Sunday there is no good reason why there should be any trade in intoxicants.

American trade with Cuba is showing large increase. It has been rather slow in coming in the line of American exports, but at last begins to justify expectations. In part the encouraging figures reported from Washington are due to Cuban railway concessions to Americans, iron and steel showing prominently in the late statistics. Consular reports say the principal reason why we do not sell more largely to the island is because our exporters do not offer as long credits as do the Europeans.

For the first quarter of this year the business failures and liabilities are less than for the same period last year, in fact, less than since 1900. Considering the increased number of business concerns and their augmented capital this statement is significant. In average liabilities 1905 shone forth brightest, being less than any year since 1857, when statistics were first compiled. The first three months of 1906 contain the promise of an even better record, as an indication of substantial prosperity.

Congress shows no symptoms of making an early decision affecting the type of the Panama canal. Some of the apathy is due to the practical assertion that if congress does not act, the administration will proceed to build a lock canal under the authority given by the original act providing for purchase from the Panama company. Friends of the lock canal are satisfied with this situation, while the "hostiles" in the senate desire to saddle the responsibility on the administration so they can magnify its possible mistakes.

It will surprise people in Allegheny county to hear that votes for the bills providing additional courts in this county are regarded as blots on the legislative records of Senator Henry H. Cumings and Representative James Braun of Warren county. The vote for the Allegheny county court bills should be counted decidedly to the credit of Messrs. Cumings and Braun, for the additional courts were and are much needed. Conditions are dissimilar in Allegheny and Warren counties or the good people of Warren would see this matter in different light.

News from Somerset contradicts the announcement that Congressman Allen F. Cooper was not to be opposed for return from the Twenty-third district: We regret this development, not because the Somerset candidate, Mr. Ogle is not in every way worthy, but because the Twenty-third district should break the habit of frequent "rotation" It is this habit that prevents the Pennsylvania delegation in the house from wielding the influence it should in national affairs. Mr. Cooper is a good representative and his constituents could wisely follow the example of their neighbor in the Twenty-fourth district.

A scheme to benefit the farmers of New England, originating with the Massechusetts State Agricultural college seems to be of a practical character and one which will produce results. It is in the nature of a preambulating county fair, consisting of a special train equipped by the college and the experiment stations of Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire. The train travels from one station to another on the Boston & Maine railroad and lectures on farm improvement are given before the farmers gathered at these stops. This is a modification of the familiar good roads and agricultural trains of the western railroads, which have done much for the country beyond the Mississippi.

Parks for the People.

More than 10,000 people in the two big parks yesterday affords an indication of the use that will be made of these recreation grounds when they have been adapted to popular entertainment. The thousands who were out yesterday were attracted by the desire to be out-of-doors, to see the flowers in the conservatory, or to observe the living creatures in the zoo, despite the consciousness it would cost them some physical discomfort. They went in the face of a threat of rain, to be endured—if it came—in the open.

It is expected the present city administration will begin in earnest the improvement of the parks for the enjoyment of the people. It ought to do so. Not all that is necessary can be supplied at once, but pursuit of an intelligent plan will bring the desired results in a few years. First of all, convenient shelter houses, ample for the needs of crowds during summer showers. Next the ability to get cool drinks and light refreshments, then play grounds for children, for adults and cosy resting places for all who wish merely to enjoy the fresh air in quiet. Such improvements need cost no vast sum of money—no sum in proportion to the outlay that has been lavished on the Schenley oval, of dubious utility.

These breathing spots should be for the whole people. If any preference be shown in their development it should be for the poor man and his family. They should be made for him a fairly satisfactory substitute for seashore and mountains where the more opulent may take their vacations. If the rich man and his family care to share in the enjoyment of the parks they may do so on exactly equal terms, if not, they can afford to go where it suits them better. There is no other proper use for city parks than the health-giving recreation and enjoyment of the people. Toward this end they should be steadily improved.

Congress Should Act.

While each branch of congress has before it a bill to restrict immigration, neither has had reported from committee any amendment to the naturalization laws. If possible this is the more important measure in dealing with the mass of immigrants coming to our shores. Present conditions are conducive to the worst forms of political corruption and misgovernment, of which so much is said in the sensational magazines and other "yellow" prints.

A high grade of government cannot be maintained without a high standard of citizenship. The evils of crowded tenements and depreciation of the standard of living are inherent in unrestricted immigration; but the tone of politics and government is more affected by lax naturalization. To this may be traced a large share of the dirty politics and "graft" that are usually charged to other accounts. For our half-baked citizens, principally, the secret ballot has been introduced, but even this unwieldy thing has not prevented corruption of the ballot, while the presence of many unpronounceable names on the registry lists constitutes an invitation to the ungodly to repeat, or to stuff the ballot box.

This session of congress should not adjourn until it has amended the naturalization laws. Five years is none too much for preparation for the duties of citizenship. More important than mere time is the acquisition of positive qualities. These should include ability to speak and understand the language of the country: an understanding of its form of government and some reasonable guarantee that citizenship is not sought for venal purposes. All this is within the power of congress without amendment to the Constitution.

Distorted History.

A Charleston, West Virginia, paper of decided Democratic prejudices, in discussing the suit Virginia has instituted in the United States court against her offspring, the new state, declares creation of the new commonwealth "was desired neither by the old state proper nor the citizens then of the territory now comprising West Virginia." This assumption, so utterly regardless of fact, deserves some correction.

The assertion that the formation of West Virginia into a state was a mere "war measure," holds good only so far as the opportunity arrived at at that time. The division of Virginia had long been contemplated. It was fomented in the early 50's before war was deemed probable. The western section of the "Old Dominion" had nothing in common with the slavocracy of the eastern part. Daniel Webster in one of his speeches in the senate on a subject entirely foreign to the causes which resulted in the attempted dismemberment of the union, prophetically declared the time would come when the Allegheny mountains would be the serious dividing line, socially as well as geographically, between the two sections of the state. That prophecy has been fulfilled. The civil war was the opportunity for that fulfillment, and it was grasped.

As to the statement that the people of West Virginia did not favor the separation, it is only necessary to cite the vote of the Virginia legislature on the submission of the ordinance of secession. Of the 46 delegates from the territory now comprising West Virginia, 29 voted against it, 9 for it, 7 were absent (evidently preparing for the inevitable), and one was excused. When that ordinance was voted on, almost all the votes cast against were polled in the counties that now comprise the new Dominion. War, it is true, severed the state and old Virginia had only herself to blame for it. The unionism of West Virginia was a barricade on the north that saved Ohio and Pennsylvania from the armed intrusion of the confederacy until Lee reached Gettysburg, where the fateful contest of the war was fought. But the north was prepared at that time, and before those years of preparation West Virginia served as a buffer and kept the southern forces from the Ohio river. Perhaps the suggestion that, in view of these historical facts, the national government should pay to Virginia the proportion of West Virginia that may be set aside by the courts as owing to the old commonwealth, is not altogether so unreasonable as it would seem. But we doubt whether this solution would be acceptable to the high-spirited citizens of our near neighbor. They have always been willing to settle, but not on the arbitrary basis laid down by Virginia and promulgated through the issuance of $15,000,000 worth of "certificates," which have been ballooned and punctured in Wall street with other flurries and deals in that great financial mart. West Virginia will pay, is able to pay, her just proportion of the debt of the old state, but she will steadfastly refuse to pay any amount that was "financed" without her knowledge or consent.

Fix the Sidewalks.

It appears timely at this season to invite attention to the sidewalks along the streets of this city. A professional man, who resides about four miles east of the court house, occasionally prefers to walk home, probably for his health's sake. He said to The Gazette yesterday: "There is no route I can take from the downtown district that I do not find dilapidated sidewalks which make walking disagreeable and difficult, if not dangerous. These are not in isolated sections; they are discouragingly prevalent."

This is an arraignment discreditable to the city. There is an ordinance requiring walks to be kept in good repair. Good material is comparatively cheap. The sidewalks should be put in good condition. This is quite as necessary as cleaning the streets—a function of good citizenship as the other is of good government. There is no better time than the early spring to attend to this matter. It is not surprising that sidewalks have deteriorated, in sympathy with the general inefficiency of government during the past three years, but the new era should see improvement.

Saving the Pennies.

The remarks of Mr. Stuyvesant Fish on the subject of Americans' extravagance and his conclusion that if every man, woman and child in the country saved, on an average, 5 cents a day there would be no need for charity organization societies, contrast interestingly with the observation of a recent distinguished visitor to Pittsburgh: "What a saving people you must be! Everywhere I go in your great city I see signs inviting one to deposit his money and receive a rate of interest which would be considered astoundingly high in my country. I learn that there are comparatively few workmen in your great industries who do not boast a bank account. Every newspaper I pick up contains advertisements urging the advantages of thrift and telling how to make dollars grow. We hear much abroad concerning the extravagance of the American people, but I confess I have seen nothing of it."

It is easy to realize how the idea of American extravagance has found lodgment in the minds of our friends abroad. Americans in Europe are spenders. Wages are higher in this country and the luxuries of other nations we consider necessities. The London Daily Mail recently estimated that 1,000,000 families in the metropolis are being supported decently on seven dollars a week. Meat forms no portion of their daily menu, but is a luxury reserved for widely separated feast days. Their dress is of the same style and material year in and year out. The American people are the best fed and the best clothed in the world, without expending their last cent in the indeavor. There is no danger, however, that we shall err on the side of miserliness. While a "French family can live on the waste of an American household there is room for economy without stinginess. We can learn much from the frugal methods of other peoples, just as they can profit by our example of how to conserve productive energies by taking some degree of comfort out of life.

Quiet Observations on Timely Topics

Some Sorts of Feelings Steal Upon Us in Spite of Anything.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

There's a feelin'
Comes a-stealin'
Sorter shamefaced like and queer,
And my heart'll
Sorter startle
Just about this time o' year,
Like a robin
That's a-throbbin'
With the matin'-time delight,
When the sun is gettin' stronger
An' the days are gettin' longer,
An' the fish begin to bite.

—Judge.

Have your feet begun to feel too big for your shoes? Do they burn and have a famishing feeling, as though they wanted to get out and touch the earth, and breathe pure, cool air?

If you were country born and raised and know the pleasures and sorrows of going barefooted, your feet haven't forgotten, even if you have, and are too proud to own up.

There are folks so stuck up that they think it positively vulgar to speak of going barefooted, much less doing it. But such as these will break into society in spite of all that can be said or done.

* * *

It was not a part of the original plan for children to be reared on wooden floors, or stone pavements, or on carpets. Mother earth was to be their nurse, and she was well prepared to give them the attention necessary to enable them to grow, and thrive, and become strong.

There is something health-giving in clay, and soil, and rock, as well as in water, air and woodland.

Those who are reared in cities where mother earth has been buried under stone, and brick, and plark, miss a great deal, much of which is very helpful, if not really essential, to proper development and good health.

* * *

This thing of going barefooted isn't all a joke, not by a whele lot. And there have been some barefoot cranks and faddists, and these have their followers who stand ready to testify that their lives were saved and health restored by taking morning walks through dew-wet grass barefooted, or by tramping over fresh plowed ground, wading in brook and pond, and paddling along muddy roads.

These testimonials ought to be, and would be, worth more than are many of the flaming testimonials we find everywhere. There is no medicine that can take the place of nature's foods and helps. Even great doctors are telling us now that medicine does not cure and all that can be expected from it is to assist nature.

And when a man wants to get strong and to fit himself for some special manly work he cuts out medicines, stimulants, tonics and the whole list of table luxuries, so called, and goes back to nature and gets as close to it as he can, and she forgives him and fixes him up nearly as good as new, but not quite, for every violation of a law of nature leaves a mark.

* * *

Isn't it most surprising that men and women will go along year in and year out complaining about pains and aches, and tired feelings, too much fat, or not enough, and a lot of other ills too tedious to mention, when, if one of them wanted to engage in a prize fight, or in some athletic sport, he could reduce his weight, increase his strength, drive dyspepsia and rheumatism away, and be all right, by returning to nature's way.

If one can do so, why not nearly all others? Even those with physical defects can keep the inconveniences arising therefrom down to a minimum.

Why don't those who are clamoring for health take a course of common-sense living?

* * *

From away back the doctor has been looked upon with more or less awe, because he was supposed to be able to juggle with life, death and sometimes to thwart the spirits whose mission was to destroy life.

Nor has it been so very long since the wisest in the land held that disease was due to the presence of a vengeful spirit, or humor in the blood. In order to get rid of these, learned men resorted to charms, prayers and a variety of trickery.

We profess not to believe that disease is a spirit that has entered the blood and sailing around doing mischief wherever it can.

But are we not getting back pretty near to that point? Is the generally accepted germ theory very different from the theory of Parcelsus, who held that diseases were due to bad occult influences, just as life and health depend on good occult, or invisible influences, or success.

* * *

In tracing the history of medicine to its beginning many interesting things have been discovered and recorded. Dr. James M. Flint, curator, division of medicine, Smithsonian institution, Washington, D. C., gives the following classification of theories of disease:

Disease, a malevolent spirit, assuming material form either animate or inanimate, attacking the victim with or without provocation. Primitive.

Disease, a spirit, acting at the suggestion of a human enemy possessing supernatural powers (sorcery, witchcraft, conjury). Savage and half-civilized peoples.

Disease caused by the angered spirits of the dead, either men or animals, or even plants. Savage and half-civilized peoples.

Disease, a punishment inflicted by an offended deity. Ancient; persistent.

Disease due to the influence of the planets or other heavenly bodies. (Astorology.) Arabians; persistent in Europe to the seventeenth century.

Disease due to a variation in the relative activity of two controlling principles of life, namely, heat and meisture, or "yin" and "yung," or the male and female principles. Persian, Chinese.

Disease due to a disturbance in the relative proportions or distribution of the fluids or "humors" of the body, namely, blood, phlegm, black bile, and yellow bile. Hippocrates, Galen. ("Humoralists.")

Disease due to changes in the form, number, arrangement, or movement of the "atoms" of which the body is composed. Asclepias. ("Solidists" or "Methodists.")

Disease due to the abnormal action of the dynamic or vital force ("spirit," pneuma," "archaeus"). Athenaeus, Parcelsus, Hahnemann. ("Vitalists.")

Disease considered only with respect to its manifestations or "symptoms," regardless of causes. Philenus, Sydenham, Hahnemann. ("Empiridists.")

Disease due to various and complex modifications of normal structure and function resulting from the conditions of environment or inherent tendencies. Modern scientific medicine.

Good Stories of Pith and Moment.

Chat and Anecdote of Entertaining and Instructive Character.

CULLED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

What He Wanted to Say.

Gov. Guild of Massachusetts tells this story: In Tremont street there used to be a stammering college kept by Professor Graves. Next door to this college was a flower store. Professor Graves' method was to ask each pupil what phrase he would like to learn to say perfectly. Then the professor would drill the pupil on that one phrase or sentence.

One day a friend of mine who was afflicted with the stuttering habit decided to patronize the professor. Before he went into the studio, however, he stopped to look in the flower store at some very handsome yellow chrysanthemums. Then he went up stairs to see the professor.

"Now, my dear fellow," said Professor Graves, "is there anything particular you would like to learn to say perfectly?"

"W-w-w-well, y-yes, th-there is," said the stammerer. "I sh-sh-should like t-t-to be able t-t-to s-say ch-crys-crys-ch-crysanth-the-m-m-mum before the darn th-thing f-fades!"—Boston Post.

Couldn't Take a Joke.

An old Georgia darkey owned a small an ancient mule, but which, at a casual question as to the price at which it was held, became suddenly endowed with all the virtues of the best blood of Kentucky.

"But he is at least 20 years old, uncle," the would-be purchaser protested.

"Dat mule!" Uncle Mose said, indignantly. "No, sah! Ef dat mule's mo' 'an six years ole, Ah hopes he dies fo' mawnin'!"

Upon visiting his stabel the next day Uncle Mose was struck with consternation to find his animal stretched lifeless on the ground.

"Look at dat, now!" he exclaimed, with intense disgust. "What yo' think o' dat? Never did see sich er fool mule—couldn't eben tak er hl' joke lack dat!"—Harper's Weekly.

What He Was There For.

A certain minister of Bangor, Me., joined a fishing party of his friends for two weeks in a woods camp. Sunday morning some of the boys wanted to go fishing, and got away without being seen by the minister; but one fellow, slower than the rest, was caught by the minister just as he was setting up his rod. The fisherman made excuses, and added: "I suppose you would not care to go?"

In answer the minister told the following story: "When I was settled in the church at Dixmont, in the first years of my ministry, I was called out of bed one night to marry a couple who had both been bereft of their first partners by death. When I got to the place where I asked the man if he took this woman to be his lawful wife, he exclaimed: 'Look a-here, parson, what in — do you think I'm here for?'"—Boston Herald.

Small Boy's Suggestion.

Senator Clay of Georgia told this story to a number of his colleagues in the senate cloakroom a few days ago: "Sam Pones, the evangelist, was holding meetings in my home town last summer in the open air. His subject for the particular evening of which I speak was 'Death.' He had been preaching his theme with 'My dear friends, think of it! Think of it, I say! And you not prepared to die. At my every breath a soul drops dead!' Then a small boy away back in the rear exclaimed: 'Why don't you try cloves?'"—Cleveland Leader.

Cats and Husbands.

Women are said to be queer, says Bent Murdock. The family cat, which was away two nights, came home with a split ear, a banged up leg and sore eye, and the women took him in, fed, coddled and arnicated him so that in a couple of days he was fairly comfortable. Suppose the man of the house, after staying out two nights, had returned home like the tomcat, what do you suppose would have happened to him?—Kansas City Journal.

Couldn't Draw It.

This story has nothing to do with conversation, but it was told in conversation the other evening, and is worth publishing. He who rescues from oblivion a goodstory is a public benefactor.

A teacher in a public school—not in Columbia—asked her pupils to draw a picture of that which they wished to be when they grew up. The pupils went diligently to work with tablets and pencils drawing pictures. All but one small girl who sat quietly holding pencil in hand and looking down at her tablet.

Thte teacher, observing the child's silence, said: "Don't you know what you want to be when you grow up?"

"Yes, I know," said the small girl, looking up, "I know I want to be married, but I don't know how to draw it."—Columbia (Mo.) Herald.

Mirror Better Than Medicine.

A ward patient in Roosevelt hospital grew gradually weaker without any apparent reason. "She's fretting herself to death about something," said the nurse. "If she would confide in me I think she would get better." By and by the patient did open her mind and heart. "If I could only see myself," she wailed. "I'd feel different. I know I must look like death or you'd let me have a looking glass." It was against the rules to supply patients in that ward with mirrors, but the nurse, recognizing the gravity of that particular case, smuggled in a small hand glass. The result was miraculous. "Why, dear me," said the sick woman, "I don't look half so bad as I supposed I did." And from that hour she began to improve.—New York Sun.

Limited Eloquence.

A member of the British house of lords says: "We are a sort of compromise between a high-class debating society and a registry office," a definition to which the debating societies will object. The bursts of eloquence in the lords are usually confined to a repetition of "Um, ah!"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Kansas' Great Loss.

Kansas lost a walking historical society when Adrian Reynolds left Sedan the other day for Oklahoma to make his home. Reynolds has been editing papers in Kansas for 40 years and knows everybody who ever cut any ice in the state.—Kansas City Journal.

No Royal Road to Religious Emotions

Heights of Feeling Are Attained by Mastering Commonplace Virtues.

By A MINISTER.

Few people credit Herbert Spencer with much warmth of life. He has been called Drysadust by those who are not one-tenth as wise or as human as he was. He has handed down a little essay on "Feeling Versus Intellect" which sounds dreadfully abstract, but which, as a matter of fact, is a most delightful sermon.

For example, he sets down the premiss that the chief component of the mind is feeling. Now, most men have looked upon feeling as absolutely apart from the mind. The intellect is generally regarded as the chief resident of the mind, and feeling is in an entirely different part of the house. The intellect has been dignified with every attention, but the emotions have been allowed to grow up wild. And curiously enough, this man Spencer, who is supposed to have had no emotional life, is angry because the emotional life has been so neglected. When one comes to think of it, he uttered his protest probably because he saw his own defects.

"The emotions are the masters," he says, "and the intellect the servant." Were this fact fully understood, he continues, "it would be seen that little could be done by improving the servant while the masters remained unimproved." Undoubtedly the progress of learning has been great, but "after 2,000 years of Christian exhortations, pagan ideas and sentiments remain rampant, from emperors to tramps."

Civilization, so-called, has been the development of the lesser part of the mind, and the poor, neglected emotions have overrun the soul, a rank, poisonous wild-growth, here, ecstatic and unintelligent states, there tremulous feelings, and elsewhere marvelous visions and outbursts of violent excitement. And the world does not seem to understand the difficulty. It still pays tribute to such peculiar things.

* * *

There is no more value in the mere having of emotional experiences than there is in the mere possession of houses and lands. Of themselves emotions and money are valueless. If emotions are of any use, then they count, but if they are not why should we permit them to be so foolishly exalted?

There is hard sense in the revulsion of feeling against the "religious" voice and the stare into space, which used to be more practical and prized than they are today. Good people of sane views on common subjects think that much of such stuff is a delusion and a snare. So often it does not make good.

This is not the place to enter into the subject of psychology, but there are many emotional creatures who suggest inquiry along this line. Some distinguished men and women in religious history have been of this emotional temperament. A book like Prof. William James' "Varieties of Religious Experience" shows their place in religion, if the reader has a disposition to enter into a study of the subject. But the point in hand is that a man cannot make honest capital of his emotions if they are of no practical benefit to him in his living, his character. On the other hand, it is foolish for any one to assert that a man with never a claim to psychical states such as have been indicated, who yet is honest, true, industrious, faithful and affectionate, must be kept down to a "mere morality" plane, and all of his virtues belittled as "splendid vices."

* * *

This "religious experience" nonsense is a familiar phenomenon to the physician. He understands better than anyone else the spells that come over his neurotic patients, and laughs up his sleeve at the awe which they inspire in their neighbors and co-worshipers. Usually there is not only bad mental condition present, but even worse moral symptoms. A young attorney remarked a few days ago that he would not live in another religious boarding house, for while all of the canons of emotional business were fulfilled and running over, in his present quarters, the absence of courtesy and adequate food was too pronounced for the good of his work in the world. Such emotions as these he complained of are most typical, and they are both useless and vicious. In one light these vain imaginings are signs and sounds, but when they are made self-sufficient and an answer for religion, they blight ordinary decency, and hence are false to the primary demands of true religion.

Common sense or public opinion, as you will, is slow. But it is never badly wrong on a subject which has come to stay a good long while. The hard old world has gone into this subject and asked very coldly what is back of this emotional life? What is the seed and the fruit of emotions?

Of course it would be presumptuous in the highest degree to suggest that exceptional emotional states are all in foolish and fraudulent people, for unquestionably the most exalted souls have had the most rapturous feelings. They know God, His universe, and themselves, as men of common clay cannot know them. But before these marvelous attainments, what was there in these lives of the saints? Every ecstacy, every vision, every impulse which thrilled the world was born in doing the common things of life. There was no limited train to carry such spirits (for the asking) to the heights of blissful emotions. There is no royal road to deep religious feeling. The process is very ordinary, hard, unattractive for the most. Those who have outstripped the others in the journey up the great highway, have done so with no seven-league boots. They have taken the common, humdrum things step by step, and have reached their loftiness because they have neither faltered nor fainted. All the glories of heaven have become theirs because first they labored to be honest, true, industrious, chaste, just, kind, generous. These are the stepping stones to higher things.

When the Nazarene was in Judea and Galilee he did not seek out the beholders of visions, but rather the ordinary, common people. He talked about immense and transcendent things, but he kept on the earth as he did so, and preached first the commonplace virtues which are for wholesome and holy relations now. Some of the disciples then, as now, wanted a near-cut to blessedness and all those delights of spirit, which looked so easy because Christ, through unknown struggles, had mastered the lesser things. But there are no near-cuts with God. The way to see God is to serve men.

Every parent should look into the life of feeling for his children's sake, and all men need to know more of it for their own sake. Look at the word for a moment. An emotion, according to the etymology of the term, is a motion from. An emotion, therefore, is of account if it proceeds from something of worth, to something of worth.

An emotion never stands alone. It is always in relationship with something "before and after." It has to do with resolves, attitudes, and acts. That is to say, it is effective. Suppose a man has the emotion of love, and does not serve whom he loves; or the emotion of wisdom, and does not impart the truth; or the emotion of patriotism, and does not respond to his country's call; or the emotion of loyalty, and does not behave honestly and industriously in his employment. That is a wrong sort of emotion, for there is no action moving out of the feeling.

Not only is such emotion unproductive of good, but it becomes in time positively vicious. There is, for example, the emotion for the beautiful, and the debauching of it by cultivating sensual and indecent pictures. So the holy emotion of friendship, and the dissipation which comes out of the convivial association of so-called friends. The emotion of mastery over the material universe, which makes Pittsburgh a colossal center, often degenerates into excessive charges and slovenly work. These things are terrible witnesses against the untrained and misunderstood emotional life.

Such examples are everywhere. One concrete case which comes to mind is that of a certain young man who went camping with a party. At home he was enthusiastic in precepts and song. He took his hymn book with him. But under the leveling influence of camp-life he soon showed himself to be a disgusting hypocrite. Profane, intolerable, irascible, he was a most unhappy but all too common specimen of religious training.

Such things could not be if every emotion were sized as raw material and wrought into the warp and woof of the fabric of character. The more men do the commandments, the more does the love of God give them ineffable feelings of joy. This way to emotional experience is worth while.

CASUAL GLIMPSES AROUND THE CITY

Notes About People and Events In Which Pittsburghers Are Interested.

Union station all yesterday afternoon and evening had a continuous dog show all of its own, and the "yipe-yipe!" of the pampered poodle harmonized with the occasional solo of some prize terrior or mastiff. After the fierce competition in howls at Duquesne garden the last three days, the dogs had forgotten all their company manners, and each was in a quiver of nervous excitement that gave vent in weary howls. The canines represented were those brought on from New York, Philadelphia and the west.

A handsomely-gowned young woman in a party of friends attempted to take a pet Pomeranian into the Pullman car of a New York train last night. The dog was detected and the conductor said:

"Sorry, madam, but dogs are not allowed in the passenger coaches."

"I want you to understand, sir," snapped the woman in an ugly tone totally at variance with her comely features, "that my family is important among the officials of this road."

"Yes'm," said the trainman meekly.

"And," continued the woman, "when I came on here Tuesday the conductor on the train allowed me to keep 'little 'Sweetsie' with me."

"Yes," snapped the conductor, "and he has been laid off for 15 days on account of it! It's a lucky thing you have a 'pull,' ma'am, so that you can have the poor fellow reinstated."

But the young woman made no inquiry, and passed coldly on and put "Sweetsie" in the "baggage coach ahead."

German Temperance Advocate Here.

"While the cause of temperance is making headway in English-speaking countries, it is significant that the white-ribboners are also making headway in Germany, where the people are mighty drinkers and far from temperate ones—though the race deserves that good repute in this country," was the dictum delivered by the Rev. Adolph Kraft, a Cleveland clergyman, who is returning from a two years' stay at his birthplace in Germany and who spent yesterday at the Fort Pitt.

"The German government, however militant, is an ideal, paternal one in its relations to the morals of the people, and this year both the Imperial and Prussian parliaments have passed restrictive measures on the drink consumption of the nation. The German people fairly worship statistics, and therefore have been brought up with a start by the knowledge that the yearly bill for 'schnaps,' wine and beer amounts to $1,000,000,000, which is three times the cost of the army and navy and seven times that of the public school system. If the nation would 'swear off' for a year it could pay the national debt with the money saved."

That is one of the reasons of my hurried return, outside of the very important one of Pittsburgh's new postoffice. The 'insurgents' in the halls of Congress were never more active, and every administration supporter is needed now to fight over 30 hostile measures which the opposition have, figuratively, up their sleeves and ready to spring during the closing days of this session.

FOUR BANKS MAY LOSE CITY FUNDS

Burns Proposes Law to Abolish Four-Year Contract Made by Last Councils.

HE REVIVES LIGHT PROJECT

"I propose to introduce an ordinance in councils to abolish the present city depositories and to provide for new ones by competitive bidding, the money of the city to be deposited in the banks that will pay the highest rate of interest," said Select Councilman H. B. Burns yesterday.

Dr. Burns has a number of reform bills which he will present to the new councils, believing they are in a mood to make some radical changes in municipal affairs. He is strongly opposed to the present method of depositing the city's millions in banks that will pay only 2 per cent interest, while the county is receiving nearly 4 per cent on its deposits.

It is Dr. Burns' plan to present an ordinance that will cancel the arrangement put through councils last June by the administration of Mayor Hays whereby four banks were selected as city depositories for four years, the banks to pay the city only 2 per cent interest, although other banking institutions offered to pay 3 per cent and higher.

"I will consult Mayor Guthrie before I present the ordinance," said Councilman Burns. "I will endeavor to ascertain the views of the mayor, but I believe the banks ought to be selected by competition. I believe in placing with the mayor, the controller and the treasurer the power to determine what class of banks or what banks shall bid. I have consulted a lawyer, who has told me there is no reason why the councils have not the power to pass such an ordiance and to repeal any agreement that may have been made by the last administration."

Last June the administration of Mayor Hays put a resolution through councils selecting four banks for depositories for four years. They pay the city 2 per cent per year on all deposits. These institutions are the Farmers' Deposit National bank, the Allegheny National, the Columbia National and the Second National. The selection of the four banks was made by the finance committee of councils in the form of a resolution which was approved by councils, and a formal agreement was entered into between the banks and the city, but Dr. Burns believes that this agreement is not binding on the present councils or the city.

Another reform bill which Dr. Burns will introduce, possibly today, is a resolution to create a municipal light commission, composed of five members from both branches of councils. This was one of the reforms that Dr. Burns started in the last councils, but which died with the councils. At his request a committee was appointed to investigate the cost and advisability of the city owning and operating a light plant, but Dr. Burns, as chairman, was the only member of the committee who made an investigation.

Dr. Burns has accumulated a lot of data which he thinks will be of value to the new commission which he wants created. The commission will secure from construction engineers from cities which have established light plants, and from other sources, the estimates of cost, and it will also confer with the city solicitor as to the legal phases of the question. One point to determine is whether the city can use the conduits and lines of the Allegheny County Light Company, or any other private company now occupying the streets.

It is claimed that some of the franchises granted by councils to the Allegheny County Light Company give the city the right to use the conduits or lines of the company. Dr. Burns says this is true of the East End district, but some doubt exists as to the downtown section.

"I believe that Pittsburgh can build a light plant for approximately $1,000,000, large enough to supply the entire city," said Dr. Burns.

Dr. Burns will also reintroduce the Brand resolution, directing the mayor and director of public works to enforce the provisions of the franchise ordinance of the Allegheny County Light Company, whereby the company agreed to furnish light to the city at 75 per cent of the rate charged private consumers. The Brand resolution was adopted by the old councils but was vetoed by Mayor Hays. Dr. Burns believes it would have better treatment at the hands of the new mayor.

SPECIAL SERMON TO GIRLS.

Rev. E. E. Manley of Belmar Church Draws Lesson from "The Captive Maiden's Convictions."

The Rev. E. E. Manley, pastor of the Belmar Christian church, preached a special sermon to girls last evening, based on the story of the little captive maiden from Israel, who told her mistress about the prophet in Samaria who could heal Naaman's leprosy. He said:

We wish to hold up before you this young girl for her share of praise. She had convictions concerning her people's faith. Brought up in Israel under the teaching of the Hebrew religion, she knew of the prophet as a servant of God. She believed that where all other gods and powers failed, the God of the Hebrews could prevail. She held this conviction even after she had been for some time in a strange country, surrounded by people of other faiths. So many lose their religion when they are placed in new surroundings. How many there are in Pittsburgh who in the old home in the country, or village, or town, were active workers in Christian endeavor, Bible school and church, who have lost their interest and seemingly care nothing for God and His cause since coming to the city? Not only had this captive maiden true convictions, but she had the courage to speak of them. Though a slave, she went to her mistress and told of the prophet. Let us have the courage of our convictions, continually and under all circumstances. "Be ready always to give to every man that asketh us a reason for the faith that is in us."

TRADE WITH CUBA JUMPS UPWARD

Uncle Sam's Business With the Island Is $125,000,000 a Year.

MUCH STEEL IS SENT THERE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, April 8.—A report issued by the department of commerce and labor on the Cuban trade, says:

Cuba ranks second in importance in the trade relations of the United States with other American countries. The total trade of the United States with the principal countries of America in the fiscal year 1905, was: With Canada, $203,000,000; Cuba, $125,000,000; Brazil, $111,000,000; Mexico, $92,000,000, and with Argentina, $89,000,000.

The value of merchandise imported into the United States from Cuba in the calendar year 1905, according to figures prepared by the department of commerce and labor, was $96,857,856, against $57,228,291 in 1903, $31,747,229 in 1900, and $16,233,456 in 1897, in which year our imports from Cuba touched the lowest point in the last half century.

The exports from the United States to Cuba aggregated $44,569,812, as against $23,504,417 in 1903, $26,934,524 in 1900, and $7,256,613 in 1896, in which year they were smaller than in any preceding year in the last half century. In both imports and exports the figures of the year 1905 are larger than those of any earlier year in our trade with Cuba.

Sugar and molasses, tobacco, cigars and fruits are the principal articles forming the imports into the United States from Cuba. The value of sugar imports in 1905 was over $72,000,000; molasses, $1,097,153; leaf tobacco, $11,879,938; cigars, $3,855,820; fruit, $1,236,028—of which all but $5,803 represented the value of bananas—and iron ore, $1,537,890.

The exports to Cuba include flour, valued at $3,442,048; cattle, $1,983,152; bituminous coal, $1,487,776; cotton cloth, $1,212,319; boots and shoes, $1,586,790; lard, $2,221,650; lard compound, $1,005,215; bacon, $412,672; hams, $468,842; pork, $480,398; milk, $647,926; lumber, $2,001,214. The shipment of rice to Cuba is a new feature in our export trade, the total value of rice sent to that island in 1904 being but $172,707, and in 1903 but $15, while the total for 1905 was $845,049.

By far the largest group of articles in the exports to Cuba from the United States is that of iron and steel manufactures, of which the total in 1905 was $8,484,267.

CONFERENCE LOVE FEAST.

Large Meeting at Bijou Theater Followed by Ordination Service and Home Missions Rally.

The largest meeting thus far in the Washington conference was the love feast held yesterday morning at the Bijou theater. The service was conducted by the Rev. Eden Hammond and the Rev. J. L. Evan, and following it was a sermon by Dr. C. W. Smith, editor of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate. Bishop Berry was to have preached, but was unable on account of an attack of hoarseness. Ordination services were held in the afternoon at the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Kirkpatrick street, the Rev. Dr. M. J. Naylor officiating. The following were ordained as deacons by Bishop Berry: the Rev. F. E. Nicholas, Stewartsville, Va.; the Rev. John W. Walters, Jr., Darksville, Va.; the Rev. C. W. Hill, Lynch, Va.; the Rev. John W. Dockett, Laplata, Md.; local deacons, the Rev. James S. Cole, Olney, Md.; the Rev. Benjamin Gibson, Annapolis, Md.; the Rev. Hanson Jones, Reistertown, Md.; the Rev. J. W. Warren, Union, W. Va.

The evening service, held at the Bijou theater, was an educational sermon and home missions rally. The Epworth league hour was conducted by W. H. Jackson and addresses were made by the Rev. W. H. Dean, Richmond, Va., and the Rev. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen of Atlanta, Ga.

THEATER SERVICES END.

Winter Series Conducted by Dr. S. Edward Young Proves Very Successful.

The closing service of the winter series at the Alvin theater, conducted by the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, was held yesterday afternoon with a large audience present. The pastor spoke on "Kicking Against the Goads." Special instrumental music was furnished by the new Pittsburgh band, and Tali Esen Morgan led the congregational singing. The service was the twenty-second held during the winter, and while no record was kept, it is believed that the aggregate attendance was close to 70,000. To reach the non-churchgoing and get them started in the religious life has been the aim of those who have the meetings in charge, and the results have more than justified the work.

At the Second Presbyterian church, Eighth street, yesterday morning, 84 new members were received, 79 being on profession of faith. The church now has the strongest congregation in its history.

DEATH FOLLOWS SHORT ILLNESS

Former Burgess James Purcell of Braddock Succumbs to Attack of Pneumonia.

ACTIVE IN BOROUGH AFFAIRS

James Purcell, one of the best known men of Braddock, identified with its history for more than 25 years, and who retired from the office of burgess the first Monday in March, died of pneumonia yesterday afternoon at the homestead at Mills and Corey avenues. He was looking after his business interests and meeting friends until Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Purcell's father, Patrick Purcell, and his mother, settled in Port Perry when it was at its height of prosperity, going there from Down county, Ireland, in 1843. Four years later James Purcell was born, May 14, 1847. His father was one of the first employes of Capt. Samuel S. Brown, the Pittsburgh coal operator and financier, who died a year ago. When the son grew up he entered the mines, and at last became a foreman. He left the mines about 1879, and started the first hotel in Port Perry. This he conducted five years, and then went to McKeesport, conducting a hotel there one year. His family then moved to Braddock, and he engaged in the hotel business 10 years, when he retired from active business, looking after financial and other affairs. He was married on May 8, 1878, to Miss Margaret McGovern of Hazelwood. Four children were born to the union, but all have died.

Mr. Purcell took great interest in the development of Braddock, and was one of the most ardent promoters of Braddock's first street railway, about 17 years ago, that of the Braddock & Turtle Creek Street Railway Company. He was a heavy holder of realty in McKeesport, and owned much property of value in Braddock. He was elected three years ago, on an independent ticket, in a thoroughly Republican town, burgess of Braddock, with one of the largest majorities ever given in that town. He is survived by his wife and two sisters, Mrs. Kenny, wife of Day Desk Sergeant Peter Kenny of the McKeesport police department, and Miss Mary Purcell, at her brother's home. Mr. Purcell was a member of Braddock council, Knights of Columbus, a charter member of St. Brendan's Roman Catholic church, Braddock, and a member of the building committee which erected the present handsome edifice. He was re-elected for 14 years a trustee of the church. His father was a charter member of old St. Thomas Roman Catholic church, Braddock, and his son was a member until the new parish of St. Brendan's was formed.

GOD'S WORD SHOWS US WAY OF RIGHT LIVING

Great Business of Life Is Therein Pointed Out, Says the Rev. S. W. McKelvey.

The Rev. S. W. McKelvey, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, preached last night on "The Great Business of Living." He took as his text, Psalm cix:59, "I thought on my ways and turned my feet unto Thy testimonies." He said:

We discover at once that the man who says this is no ordinary person. He says, "I thought on my ways." He is truly in earnest. Like every man, he has spiritual instincts within him and they are prophetic. They speak of God and judgment and immortality. Life is not all here and now, and there is a great selfish relation between that now and that hereafter. He sees the rich and the poor meet together at death and he knows that "a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesses." The way a man is living is the way he is going. A "way" leads somewhere. It determines the place a man shall reach, and the way determines the condition when he arrives there. He who goes his own way and leaves God out will go where there is no God and no hope. This man looked at "his ways" and saw their logical ending. He was not satisfied with the outlook and turned to God's testimonies. "The testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple." There is nothing small in God's ways. His ways are as high as heaven above man's.

God's word lets in the light on these great questions of the soul. It clears away the deep mists hanging over the relations of character and destiny. It makes us acquainted with God, and the judgment and immortality. It shows us the way that we can know this great business of living, and live well. It is, "Be diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." This thinker so thought on his ways and then on God's ways, and then he turned his feet from his ways to God's ways.

OBSERVE "FRATERNITY DAY."

Members of Many Fraternal Organizations Attend Services of Reform Congregation Rodeph Shalom.

"Fraternity day" was observed at the twenty-third service of the fifth series of Sunday services held under the auspices of the Reform Congregation Rodeph Shalom, yesterday morning at Carnegie hall, Allegheny, representatives of a large number of fraternal organizations joining the congregation in worship. The musical portions of the service were rendered by Messrs. Bramson and Weiss of the Pittsburgh orchestra, and W. K. Steiner. Rabbi Levy preached on the subject of "The Sympathy of Religions," and said in part:

Harmony does not mean sameness. Sympathy does not mean identity. Not sameness, but sympathy in spite of diversity, produces that unity in which nature rejoices and God wills. Sameness ends in repressive Puritanism; harmony admits of the greatest liberty of expression within the limits of truth. It is well for us who are deeply concerned in the success of God's cause to remember that a monopoly of truth and virtue has been given to no one people. All religions have sought to add to the growth of the divine in man. Among the learned and among the unlettered, among the mighty and among the powerless, among the progressive and among the conservative of men, religion has found an abiding place. Outside of the churches no agencies give the promise of greater help than the fraternal organizations whose fundamental ideal is to put into practice the lessons taught by the church organizations. If the church is a training school for religion, the fraternal order is one of the practical realizations of the instructions given by the school. Wherever these orders flourish the care of the widow and orphan, provision for the aged and infirm, instruction for the unenlightened, help for the prosecuted and suffering, protection for the weak, every beneficent and uplifting work of love have been put into practice.

HALF-TONE SECTION CALLS FOR WORDS OF UNSTINTED PRAISE

More food for the thinkers. The Sunday Gazette aims to be complete, and is attaining it in every department of the great journal. From the magnificent half-tone section to the smallest items of local interest, yesterday's Gazette was certainly a gem. The half-tone section is calling for encomiums from all parts of the world. Not alone is it being appreciated by readers of The Gazette into whose home it goes each Sunday to entertain and instruct, but competitors in the field of journalism have gracefully paid to The Gazette half-tone section the homage which it so well merits. The beauty of the half-tone section lies not entirely in the excellence of the pictures. That, of course, is an essential which could not be overlooked, but the choosing of the subject plays a most conspicuous part. The Sunday Gazette strives to bring the half-tone pictures right home to the people who read The Gazette. There is something familiar about each and every picture. The faces are of those who have in some way crossed the pathway of thousands in the Pittsburgh district. The scenes, most of them, are laid right here at home, and, because of this, those who study the pictures are able to tell at a glance whether or not they are true as to detail.

The Home Journal section yesterday was certainly a breezy department. While women are each year becoming more and more readers of the news of the day, the old love of the little frivolities of life cannot be cast aside. For that reason the Home Journal section, with its fashion chats, hints for the household, recipes for preparing dainty dishes for the folks at home, is particularly appealing.

If one happened to get out of bed the wrong way yesterday morning a few moments with the comedians in The Gazette comic supplement was calculated to set things right. Mr. Coon was about the busiest customer to be found in a day's travel. Jimmy Swift's bump of destructiveness continued to develop. Little Nemo headed a procession toward Slumberland, but slipped a cog before the portals swung open to receive him. Everybody else was in good voice and helped others sing the praises of The Sunday Gazette.

The Death Roll

The Rev. Thomas Hastings Robinson.

The Rev. Thomas Hastings Robinson, D. D., for 17 years a professor of the Western Theological seminary and one of the most prominent Presbyterian ministers of Pennsylvania, died yesterday at the home of his son in Redlands, Cal. The deceased had been in ill-health for several months, but pneumonia was the immediate cause of his death. Prior to accepting a chair at Western Theological seminary in Allegheny in 1884, Dr. Robinson was pastor of the Market Square Presbyterian church at Harrisburg for 30 years. It was his first and only pastorate. He was born January 29, 1828, in Erie county, Pa. He was of Scotch-Irish stock, his ancestors being among the early settlers in the eastern part of the state, later locating on the shores of Lake Erie. Dr. Robinson was educated at Oberlin college in Ohio and graduated from the Western Theological seminary in 1854. In the same year he received a call to the Market Square Presbyterian church in Harrisburg. Remaining there as pastor for 30 years and serving as professor of sacred rhetoric, pastoral theology and church government in the Western Theological seminary, he retired in 1901. The remainder of his life was spent in retirement in Pittsburgh. He went to California to spend the winter. Dr. Robinson held many high positions in the Presbyterian church. He served as moderator of the Pennsylvania synod, was stated clerk for many years, was a delegate to the general assembly, twice a delegate to the international assembly of associated churches, a trustee of Princeton college, of Wilson College for Women, of Pennsylvania College for Women and a director of the Western Theological seminary. During the civil war he served as a member of the Christian commission, having charge of the work in Pennsylvania. The duties of the commission were to look after the spiritual welfare of the enlisted soldiers. Dr. Robinson married Miss Mary Wolf Beuhler of Harrisburg, who died in 1901. He is survived by three sons and two daughters—Prof. William A. Robinson, Lawrenceville, N. J.; Edward O. Robinson, Los Angeles, Cal.; Thomas H. Robinson, jr., Redlands, Cal.; Mrs. George R. Fleming and Miss Mary B. Robinson, Harrisburg, Pa. Five brothers of the deceased, all now dead, established the banking house of Robinson Brothers in Pittsburgh, which is now conducted by his nephew. HARPER'S MAGAZINE FOR APRIL

There are twenty-four separate contributions exclusive of the regular departments in the April number of Harper's Magazine. The articles cover many varied fields of interest. There is nothing "timely," nothing controversial, nothing concerning politics, graft or crime.

8 Complete Short Stories

No two of these stories are alike. Each is the best of its type. There is a story of love and war in mediaeval times, a weird, supernatural story of Pennsylvania country folk, a story of college settlement life in New York, a story of simple love with a charming heroine, one of Alice Brown's most charming middle aged love stories and others, all differing and all interesting.

Special Articles

In the articles of this number there is almost a richer variety than in the short stories. Two friends of Herbert Spencer, who lived with him in his later years, write of a hitherto entirely unknown side of the great thinker's life—of his one little love story, of how he painted his carpet with red ink when it grew dim and a dozen other intimate tales of his home.

Then there is a remarkable scientific article by Prof. Robert Kennedy Duncan, which tells how the German scientists have assured the continuance of the world's food supply by their remarkable discoveries.

Prof. Lounsbury of Yale has some interesting things to say of the pedantic use of the English language—he says it is all right to say, "tomorrow is Sunday" instead of "tomorrow will be Sunday," as the purists insist.

Clifford Ashley, the artist, who made a trip in an old-fashioned whaler for Harpers, tells of and pictures his adventures, and Deshler Welsh has a valuable paper of literary interest containing a number of hitherto unpublished letters of Charles Dickens.

W. D. Howells writes of "Glimpses of the English Washington Country," and Agnes Lauet tells a stirring narrative of the wild adventures between the early French explorers and the English of the Hudson Bay Company.

These are only a few of the things in the April number of Harper's Magazine—a book of 165 pages illustrated beautifully in color, tint and black and white.

In addition to these features there is Margaret Deland's wonderful serial novel, "The Awakening of Helena Richie," a tremendous story of the unfolding of a woman's soul.

MONEY RATES EASED OFF TO START SPECULATION

Wall Street Awakes to the Fact That the Market Has Not Been So Well Backed With Finances as Supposed.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, April 8.—Speculative Wall street on Saturday awoke to a realization of the fact that it had been hoodwinked and humbugged for the greater part of two weeks as to the actual position of the money market. As a matter of fact, the deception practised in effect, if not actually, has been of even longer duration.

For eight successive weeks the bank reserves have only been a trifle above the legal requirements, and for a much longer period than that between 20 and 30 banks of the Clearing House association, about half of them national institutions, have been persistently under the 25 per cent requirement, leaving such excess as did exist to be made up from the reserves by a few institutions that deemed it prudent to hold themselves in a strong position.

However, with this expanded position, money rates had been eased off, apparently to create an impression of improvement, in order to start the speculation market anew. The rates were abnormally low for such a banking position as was disclosed by the weekly bank statement and the tendencies of money. The interior was not remitting abundantly and the sub-treasury was draining the funds from the banks. Business continued active, and there was no relaxation from that quarter, and bankers were engaged in turning out new capital issues by millions, tens of millions and hundreds of millions to add to the burdens under which the money market already staggered. How could a money market under such conditions really improve?

Wall street during the week was fed upon money market myths. One of these was that the money rates were being manipulated by a coterie of bankers to force stock liquidation and thus enable this particularly interesting group of banditti to load up with securities. Without pausing at this time to expose the mendacious character of this story in its direct application it may be said that the banking position has been so weak, the retention of currency in the interior so pronounced, the movement of rates of domestic exchange have been so clearly against New York, the sub-treasury has drained so heavily and so persistently as to render it impossible for the money market to have been manipulated in favor of higher rates.

There may have been manipulation in the New York money market, and it behooves all persons, whether bankers, brokers or merchants, to discover whether it was or not; but that manipulation was not in the direction of advancing rates for call money and time money and commercial paper during the week just closed. Far more is the likelihood, if there has been any manipulation of rates whatever, that it took place during the preceding weeks, and particularly in the closing days of March, when the already weak banking position the heavy April disbursements coming along, and the tendencies of the market as to the interior movement and treasury absorption clearly defined, the end of the month was passed over with such suspicious ease. There might have been deception there that did harm, fully as much and more harm than the 50 per cent call rate of Thursday and Friday last, the legitimacy of which is adequately accounted for in the enormous cash loss for the week and the $2,500,000 deficiency in the reserves.

TONE OF MARKET IS GOOD AND PRICES ARE FIRM

Fear of Labor Troubles and Unpopularity of British Ministry Prevents Boom in Stocks.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LONDON, April 8.—Though the Moroccan question has been settled satisfactorily and though evidence has been given by both France and Germany that on neither side is there any desire but to live in perfect amity, one with the other, it has not had any effect upon the markets here. No doubt, the tone, upon the whole, is good and prices are firm. But that is about all that can be said for it, looking at the situation squarely.

It was hardly to be expected that, even with the satisfactory termination of the Algeciras conference, people with any sense of caution could be expected on the eve of the Easter vacation to engage immediately in new risks. But other and more serious influences are having their effects on the markets here as elsewhere. There are the fears of coal strikes in Germany, as well as in the United States and there is also the fact that the new British ministry has already contrived, unfortunately, to make itself very unpopular in business circles.

Strong fears of objectionable labor legislation exist in the city, while the government policy in South Africa continues to keep business in a depressed state. At the same time, as the Statist remarks, all these influences which are affecting business at present are but temporary in their nature. It adds:

"After a while we shall see business broadening and prices advancing. It is always to be borne in mind that the markets of the world are now all so closely interconnected that each one influences all the others, and in the present condition of things the influences working for improvement are greatly stronger than those making for depression."

There was even hardly a movement in consols.

The fact that call money in New York at times rose to a very high range caused a sharp setback in securities for a while, but there was an equally sharp rally later, and on the balance quotations are generally higher than they were last week.

Oil Operators Are Speculating on Tyler County Pool Prospects

In the entire lower southwest fields there was not one locality that attracted any attention during the past week. Since the Southern Oil Company drilled in its test two months ago on the R. A. Workman farm, on Point Pleasant creek, Ellsworth district, Tyler county, and got a gusher, there has been a good deal of speculation as to what future developments would determine in the way of developing a pool. In all nine wells have now been completed in the district and all have come in good producers except one. This one, No. 1 on the Clendenning farm, proved a failure. The production of the pool has been somewhat forced on account of shooting the wells. For a single day during the past week and after three of the wells had been shot the production of the pool was close to 1,500 barrels. Of this aggregate the Southern Oil Company's two wells on the R. A. Workman farm and the Lincoln Oil Company's well on the W. L. Workman farm produced more than 1,100 barrels. Despite the fact that the wells are good producers, they show very little as to what may be expected as to the producing area of the pool after the limits have been defined. So far as development work has progressed the wells have been confined to a comparatively small acreage. Some of the wells now drilling and starting in advance of the producers will furnish the desired information. Within the next two weeks a part of these test wells will get the producing formation and show in which direction the producing formation extends.

The only deep sand district that furnished better than an average pumper is near Bula, Monongalia county, where the South Penn Oil Company drilled a second test on the Simon Eddy farm into the Gordon and got a 90-barrel producer. This is not new territory. The Folsom, Wallace and Salem districts, all in the deep sand territory, completed some wells and all light producers. All three districts show a falling off in operations and there is nothing to indicate that there will be a revival in the near future.

Ritchie county has more new work starting than any other. The undefined and undeveloped salt sand territory is claiming some attention. This will be one of the busy districts during the remainder of the year. So far none of the wells completed has gotten into the gusher list, but average size and the regularity of the producing formation will make it desirable territory to operate.

During the summer explorations will be carried into new and untried territory. For some months leasing has been somewhat active far in advance to the southwest of present producing territory. Down through Jackson, Mason and Putnam counties, in the Big Lime development, near Milton, in Cabell county, much territory has been leased. In the past there has been some promiscuous test work done in each of the counties named, but with the exception of the Big Lime development in Cabell county, nothing encouraging has come of it. In Putnam county fair gas deposits have been found and it is thought that in the same locality there may be found oil in paying quantities.

Operators on the Ohio side are not making any new discoveries and in nearly all of the old districts there is a falling off in operations. In the Berea grit development, near Woodsfield, Monroe county, development work has declined and the size of the new completions is smaller than some months ago. In Harrison and Jefferson counties some experimental work is starting and in the last named county there is an extension that is supplying some new production.

In Meigs county, near Pomeroy, the Ohio Fuel Supply Company feels encouraged with the development work that it has done in that locality. The two wells that this company has completed are holding up at 15 and 18 barrels a day, respectively. The first has been producing nearly two months and the second about a month.

The territory in the vicinity of the original white oil producer on the Menagert farm, near Butler, Richland county, and about 12 miles southeast of Mansfield, is not coming up to expectation. Two dry holes have been completed within the past two weeks and they are located but a short distance from the three producers.

On a northeast and southwest line, beginning at the north in Lorain county and extending southwest through the middle part of the state to the Ohio river on the southwest, large blocks of territory have been leased during the past winter. Gas companies have been the most active in taking up the territory along this line. Some of the counties traversed by the line mentioned have been almost leased solidly, some companies, the Northwestern Ohio, having taken up entire townships. Gas is the primary incentive for leasing up this territory, but there is the bare possibility that the testing of so large a body of territory may lead to the discovery of new pools of oil.

IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE

BY EMILE GABORIAU

Author of "THE MYSTERY OF ORCIVAL," "FILE NO. 113," Etc.

In the meantime poor Dr. Seignebos, who had unwillingly caused this catastrophe, was distressed beyond measure; still he hastened to the assistance of Goudar, who lay insensible on the gravel of the court yard. The two wounds which the detective had received were serious, but not fatal, nor even very dangerous, as the knife had been turned aside by the ribs. He was at once carried into one of the private rooms of the hospital and soon recovered his consciousness. When he saw all four gentlemen bending anxiously over his bed, he murmured with a mournful smile—"Well, was I right when I said that my profession is a rascally one?"

"But you are at liberty now to give it up," replied M. Folgat, "provided always a certain house in the Rue des Vignes should not prove too small for your ambition."

The detective's pale face was tinged by a passing blush. "Will they really give it to me?" he asked.

"Since you have discovered the real criminal and handed him over to justice."

"Well, then, I will bless these wounds; I feel that I shall be right again in a fortnight. Give me pen and ink at once, that I may write my resignation, and tell my wife the good news."

He was interrupted by the entrance of one of the officers of the court, who came to tell the public prosecutor that the priest of Brechy was waiting to see him at his office.

"I am coming directly," replied M. Daubigeon. And, turning to his companions, he said—"Let us go, gentlemen."

The worthy priest rose quickly from his chair when he saw M. Daubigeon enter, accompanied by M. Galpin-Daveline, M. Folgat and Dr. Seignebos.

"Perhaps you wish to speak to me alone, sir?" asked M. Daubigeon.

"No, sir," replied the priest. "The words of reparation which have been intrusted to me must be uttered publicly." And, handing him a letter, he added—"Read this. Please read it aloud."

The public prosecutor tore open the envelope with a tremulous hand, and then read as follows:

"Being about to die in the Christian faith, as I have lived, I owe it to myself, to God whom I have offended, and to those I have deceived, to declare the truth.

"Influenced by hatred, I gave false evidence in court, and wrongfully stated that M. de Boiscoran was the man who shot at me, and that I recognized him in the act.

"I did not recognize him, however; and moreover I know that he is innocent. I am sure of it, and I swear it by all I hold sacred both in this world which I am about to leave, and in that other sphere where I must now appear before my sovereign judge.

"May M. de Boiscoran forgive me as I myself forgive.

"TRIVULCE DE CLAUDIEUSE."

"Unfortunate man!" murmured M. Folgat.

But the priest had already resumed speaking: "You see, gentlemen, the Count de Claudieuse withdraws his charge unconditionally. He asks for nothing in return; he only wants the truth established. And yet I beg leave to express the last wishes of a dying man. I beseech you, in the new trial, to make no mention of the countess' name."

Tears were seen in all eyes.

"Rest assured, reverend father," said M. Daubigeon, "the Count de Claudieuse's last wishes shall be respected. The countess' name shall not be mentioned. There will be no need for it. The secret of her fault shall be religiously kept by those who know it."

It was now 4 o'clock. An hour later Michael, the Boiscoran tenant's son, who with a gendarme had been sent to ascertain the truth of Cocoleu's statements, returned to Sauveterre with the gun the wretch had employed to perpetrate his crime. As Cocoleu had declared, it was found concealed in the den he had dug out for himself in the forest of Rochepommier, and where Michael had discovered him the day after the crime.

Henceforth Jacques' innocence was as clear as daylight; and, although he had to bear the burden of his sentence till the judgment was declared void, it was decided, with the consent of the president of the court, M. Domini, and the active co-operation of M. du Lopt de la Granstere, that he should be set free that same evening. M. Folgat and M. Magloire were charged with the pleasant duty of acquainting the prisoner with this good news. They found him walking up and down his cell like a madman, devoured by unspeakable anguish, and not knowing what to make of the hopeful words which M. Daubigeon had spoken to him in the morning. He was hopeful, it is true; and yet when he was told that he was safe, that he was free, he sank, an inert mass, into a chair, being less able to bear joy than sorrow. But such emotions are not apt to last long. A few moments later and Jacques de Boiscoran, arm in arm with his counsel, left the prison, wherein he had for several months suffered all that an innocent man can suffer. He had paid a fearful penalty for what, in the eyes of so many men, is but a trifling wrong.

When they reached the street in which the Chandores lived M. Folgat said to his client, "They do not expect you, I am sure. Walk slowly, while I go ahead to prepare them."

The young advocate found Jacques' parents and friends assembled in the salon, suffering great anxiety; for they had not been able to ascertain what truth there was in the vague rumors which had reached them. M. Folgat employed the utmost caution in preparing them for the truth; but at the first words Denise interrupted him, asking:

"Where is Jacques?"

Jacques was kneeling at her feet, overcome with gratitude and love.

CHAPTER V.

On the following day the funeral of the Count de Claudieuse took place. His youngest daughter was buried at the same time; and in the evening the countess left Sauveterre, to make her home henceforth with her father in Paris.

* * * * * * * * *

In the proper course of the law, the sentence which condemned Jacques was declared null and void; Cocoleu, found guilty of having committed the crime at Valpinson, was sentenced to hard labor for life.

A month later, Jacques de Boiscoran and Denise de Chandore were married at the church at Brechy. The bridegroom's witnesses were M. Magloire and Dr. Seignebos; the bride's—M. Folgat and M. Daubigeon. Even the excellent public prosecutor laid aside some of his usual gravity for the occasion, and continually repeated—

"Nun cest bibendum, nunc pede libero Pulsanda tellus."

And, obedient to the quotation, he gayly drank his glass of wine, and opened the ball with the bride.

M. Galpin-Daveline, already sent in exile to Algeria, was not present at the wedding. But M. Mechinet was there, all smiles and happiness, for, thanks to Jacques, he was now quite free from pecuniary troubles.

By this time the two Blangins, husband and wife, have well-nigh spent the whole of the money they extorted from Denise. Frumence, as parkkeeper at Boiscoran, is the terror of all vagrants; while Goudar, in his garden in the Rue des Vignes, grows the finest peaches in Paris.

(THE END.)

BISHOP M'CABE AGAINST UNIONS

Declares Labor Organizations Must Reform Themselves or Cease to Exist.

HE SPEAKS FOR METHODISTS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, April 8.

Answering a question which he said had been asked of him many times in the last few days as a result of charges made against ministers by the "Big Six," Bishop Charles C. McCabe said today, in a sermon before the East New York conference, in the New York Avenue church, Brooklyn, that his church was opposed to labor unions as they now exist and would use its influence to wipe them out or reform them.

"I have received letters from friends and labor men," said he, "asking me to state the position of the Methodist church on the labor problem, and I take this opportunity to outline our position. I want to state the attitude of the church, and this is official.

"We are opposed to having a small percentage of labor men run the entire laboring class in a highhanded and authoritative manner. We are the friends of labor, but we are as much the friends of the 9 per cent of the laborers who resent the bossism of the unions as we are of the 10 per cent who are doing the bossing. It is an imposition for a few men to be able to say 'Join our union or you cannot work!' It is an imposition to refuse to allow men to work as they will if they work honestly and earn their livelihood by honest sweat.

"As now constituted, labor unions cannot long stand. Either they must reform themselves or they will cease to exist, as they are now unfair and unjust, and the honest workingman cannot long be subjected to oppression without rising in revolt. I want every one of the 3,000 ministers here to accept this as his creed and preach it. I am stating the position of the Methodist church today at this conference, as the members of the church do not seem to be disposed to state it themselves. I want the statement to be published broadcast, so that there can be no doubt as to the attitude of Methodists toward honest labor. I believe this should become part of the creed of every Protestant church."

One of the newest ideas in the Christian church, Bishop McCabe said, is that Hebrews must be converted to accept Christ as their Savior.

"One of the most pathetic things in all history is that the Hebrews are still looking for Jesus to come," he said. "I intimately know a wealthy Hebrew who has been converted to the Christian church and who is spending large sums sending out the New Testament to members of his race. The quickest way to save the world is to begin to convert Hebrews as we are now converting other races. They are ready to be converted and have been neglected too long. They are already tired of waiting, in the vain hope that Christ is still coming, and the time has now arrived when they are ready to be convinced that they are wrong."

Appetite Gone?

And perhaps what little you do eat distresses you. Strength is failing—are bilious. You have headache, backache, feel blue and melancholy—and can not rest or sleep. The fact is your nerves are unstrung, and you are on the verge of nervous prostration. They must be strengthened, renewed. If neglected, stomach and kidney troubles follow. They will not cure themselves, but must have a nerve remedy. This you will find in

Dr. Miles' Nervine

It is prepared for just such ailments, and it is a never-failing remedy, because it soothes, feeds and builds the nerves back to health.

"For 30 years I had nervous diseases of the stomach. I had no appetite, could not sleep; run down to 93 pounds. I now weigh 120, am in good health, and Dr. Miles' Nervine is the cause of it."

BEARISH IS MOVEMENT IN THE LOCAL MARKETS

Only Upward Tendency Noted is in Provisions—Produce Shows Weakness.

Every change in price Saturday showed a bearish tendency. For the first time in the past few months a change is noticeable in vegetables that will mean that in the very near future they will get to the point in price where they will be within the reach of the masses. Cabbage, lettuce, beets, etc., all succumbed to the supply Saturday and went down in price, but strawberries, which are not coming in as fast as expected, went up a few points and are dearer than a week ago.

Provisions are stiffer than a week ago. All salt meats of the better quality went up a quarter of a cent in price, but lard still remains at 9 cents a pound, and will probably remain firm at that figure. The demand for salt meats will decrease in the next few months, but the price is still stiff.

Potatoes showed no change Saturday, but a break is expected soon. Seed cabbage is a little weaker and so is new cabbage of the southern variety. A few more days of nice weather and prices will go down.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts bulletined yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 5 cars hay, 1 car corn, 1 car oats. Baltimore & Ohio, 2 cars hay, 3 cars oats, 1 car corn. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 8 cars hay, 3 cars oats, 1 car corn.

Market has been firm and active during the past week. Prices were higher at the close than at the beginning. Western market continues very strong on corn and oats and there is another sharp advance which will be felt here later on. Hay continues scarce and prices are advancing. Mill feed is wanted at top quotations.

BOTH FOOD AND MEDICINE.

We like best to call Scott's Emulsion a food-medicine. It is a term that aptly describes the character and action of our Emulsion. More than a medicine—more than a food, yet combining the vital principles of both. It is for this reason that Scott's Emulsion has a distinct and special value in all wasting diseases. There is nothing better to remedy the troubles of imperfect growth and delicate health in children. The action of Scott's Emulsion is just as effective in treating weakness and wasting in adults.

RAINS TOO MUCH FOR THE PIRATES

Evansville Crowd Disappointed Because Elements Prevent Exhibition Game.

HANS WAGNER THE HERO

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

EVANSVILLE, IND., April 8.—"They don't care nothing about the game. They only came out here to see Hans Wagner."

This information was volunteered by a staid citizen of Evansville and referred to the 1,800 baseball hungry people who braved the rain and wind and assembled at the Central league park this afternoon for the exhibition game with the Pirates.

The crowd was very anxious to see the big German and they saw him in action for a few minutes without any expenses. "Where's Wagner," was a query going all through the stands and when the bow-legged hero was pointed out he was given the glad hand.

The diamond was really in unfit condition and the size of the crowd made up the only temptation to play. Secretary Will Locke went out to the park early in the afternoon and found a crowd of boys with brooms sweeping two inches of water off the diamond. He communicated with Capt. Clarke over the 'phone, and Fred ordered the men out in uniform to be ready for the game in case it was decided to play.

When the team arrived at the grounds, the gates were barred against several hundred anxious fans who were clamoring for admission. Profiting by past experiences and not caring to refund more money than was taken in, the Evansville management decided not to open the gates until 3 o'clock. It was threatening up to that time and a light rain fell, but the crowd was admitted with the understanding that all would go out and pay to return in case it was decided to play the game.

The crowd was noisily insistent upon playing and the Pirate management coveted the neat bunch of money represented by the crowd. Clarke announced that he would play and the boys knocked a few balls out to the sogging field while Karger began to warm up, but just when matters looked brightest there was a thunder clap followed by rain. It was all off, and the players returned to the hotel.

The crowd was disappointed and all agreed that if the weather had been favorable there would have been a record-breaking attendance.

Last night was a rather eventful one for the Pirates. In the morning when Karger arose from his berth in the sleeper, he picked up a ladies' purse containing a large sum of money from the floor. The purse must have been exchanged by it's owner for Han's Wagner's hat, and the supposition is that it was the work of a hero worshiper. Wagner was compelled to walk to the hotel wearing a baseball cap and he attracted considerable notice from Sunday morning churchgoers. Wagner had a similar experience last spring, when he lost a hat from a car window en route to Cincinnati for the opening game.

The weather is considerably colder tonight and if there is a further fall in the temperature by morning the Pirates will cancel Monday's game at Terre Haute and remain in Evansville. The Evansville management is urging Secretary Locke and Capt. Clarke to cancel Terre Haute regardless of the weather and to play here tomorrow.

BILLY CAMPBELL OUT OF THE GAME FOR SEASON

Popular Harrisburg Pitcher Has Typhoid Pneumonia and Rheumatism.

THE JOHNSTOWN LINE-UP

Billy Campbell, the well-known local pitcher who was considered the leading southpaw in the Tri-State league last year, is dangerously ill with typhoid fever, pneumonia and rheumatism. "Red" Calhoun, the captain of the Harrisburg team which Campbell was to rejoin today, visited Campbell's physician yesterday and he was informed that the popular pitcher will probably not be able to play any ball at all this season. If he recovers he will be so weak that he will not be in shape to take part in hard games, the physician said.

Campbell won 13 straight games for Harrisburg last year.

JOHNSTOWN, April 8.—(Special.)—The lineup of the Johnstown team was practically completed tonight and the players will begin reporting tomorrow with the exception of a few who are training out with teams in the south and who desire to remain there as long as possible in order to get in the best of condition. Within the last few days Johnstown has lost Pitcher Miller, who jumped his contract to play with Wheeling; Pitcher McCarthy, who also jumped a contract to play with Toronto in the Eastern league; Pitcher Burchell, who also jumped to play with Baltimore, his old love, and Infielder Louis Castro, who after signing decided to join Nashville of the Southern league. All had signed regular contracts and McCarthy, Miller and Burchell had accepted considerable advance money from the local club.

The following players, who played with the clubs mentioned last season, are expected to report in Johnstown within the next three days: Cathers, Eddie Murphy, Johnstown, and David Barber, Lancaster, Pa.; pitchers. Martin Glendon, Johnstown; J. J. Donovan, Lynn, Mass.; George E. Scott, Louisville; Cecil Armstrong, Youngstown, and J. A. McDougall, St. Louis Nationals; Infielders, Christ. Deals will be closed with several other pitchers within a few days. The jumping of four players within 24 hours did not interfere materially with the plans of the local club.

Trolley League Is Formed.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 8.—(Special.)—There will be a trolley league in this section this year as a result of a meeting last night. A committee composed of Marry Collins and Thomas Scanlon was appointed to make arrangements. The clubs represented were: Hubbard, Lowellville, Niles, Sharon and Youngstown. There will be six teams in the league, Youngstown probably having two.

Thomas Signs With Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 8.—(Special.)—At the last moment Pitcher Billy Thomas reconsidered his decision to join the Harrisburg outlaw team and placed his signature on a Youngstown contract. This gives Hogan eight pitchers.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL ATHLETIC GOSSIP

A fast infield at Princeton seems certain from the material on hand, and if the Tigers can bat, they will run a close race with the best college teams.

Vaughan, the freshman from Exeter, continues his fast work. He has the baseball instinct and handles himself well, covering a large amount of ground. Reid, 1st short, is playing his usual snappy and aggressive game. Sides seems to be a fixture at third. Sides is decidedly better in the field than in the batter's box. However, he had a good percentage last season in hitting and as the spring advances may pick up.

The most bothersome position for the coaches on the nine is first base. A week or two ago it was between Hard and Hamill, with a possibility of McLean. Hard has not been at practice for several days, and to the surprise of many, Heynigar, the big freshman pitcher, was put on the initial bag in Wednesday's game. He handled himself well and if he can be spared from the box he will strengthen the team materially by covering first. Heynigar's height and weight make him steady, and his batting ability is needed by the Tigers.

An invitation indoor track meet was held Saturday night for the special benefit of the faculty. Wesley Coe, the shot-put champion, had expected to make another try for Ralph Rose's Michigan record, but he injured his leg a few days ago and did not participate tonight. The summaries:

Shot-put—First, Dunlap; second, Garrels. Distance—44 feet 4 inches.

Three-lap race—First, Goodwin; second, Ramey; third, Coe. Time—:45 2-5.

Forty-yard dash—First Clark; second, Cotton; third, Bristol. Time—:04 4-5.

Forty-yard low hurdle—First, Cotton; second, Malcomson; third, Bristol. Time—:05 1-5.

Forty-yard high hurdle—First, Malcomson; second, Cotton; third, Hale. Time—:05 2-5.

Pole vault—First, Read and Hunt tied. Height—9 feet 3 inches.

High jump—First, Pinch, Hoppin and Ferris tied. Height—5 feet 10 inches.

Cornell defeated Niagara Saturday, 2 to 0, playing an errorless game, on a field slippery with a light rain, and Deshon, who pitched for the Ithacans, kept the visitors from getting a single hit. Bigelow made a three-base hit and Capt. Welch a two-bagger in the first inning. Deshon struck out 12 men. Syl. Preston played middle field.

The Montclair Gun club defeated the Princeton team by the score of 236 to 187. The best score was made by Bush of Montclair, who broke 45 birds out of a possible 50. A strong wind prevented better scoring.

Coach Stagg announced from Miami, Fla., that the try-out for the team to represent Chicago at the University of Pennsylvania open meet on April 28 would be held on April 21. According to the usual custom a relay race for high schools will be held, and $125 will be given to the winning team in order that it may go to Philadelphia and take part in the meet.

They were married in 1893 anad have one daughter. Mrs. Zeigler is an actress and appeared here early this season.

STEUBENVILLE WILL PRACTICE THIS WEEK

Series Are Three, Two and Two. Seven at Home and the Same Abroad.

NO SUNDAYS ARE CARDED

The Steubenville players will report to Manager Eddie Lee tomorrow at Altoona. The first practice game will be played Thursday with the Altoona Tri-State league club. Games with Johnstown will follow. The team will report at Steubenville in two weeks to open with the Pittsburgh college April 28. Lee has signed pitcher Verner, who was with Johnstown last year.

When Billy Phyle signed with Kansas City last week he wound up his career as a blacklisted player and got back into the organized fold. Phyle had about as much trouble doing this as any man ever thrown out by the national commission. Phyle's troubles commenced with the Southern league and pursued him for the past four years. Last season he cost the Youngstown club $500 in fines and another $500 for services he was not permitted to perform. The Cincinnati National league club also paid $100 for playing Youngstown with Phyle in the lineup. He has now signed with George Tebeau and will be used at short for Kansas City. Phyle was the best third baseman in the O. & P. league and could hit and run the bases. Mert Whitney, last year with Youngstown, is playing first for Kansas City. Last season he made 18 home runs.

There is a telegram at this office for Pitcher Jim Pastorious.

BUTLER, PA., April 8.—(Special.)—President E. L. Wasson and Manager Thad Troy of the Butler baseball team, have announced the following players signed: W. R. T. league; Edward Allen, infielder, Cincinnati; Edward Milligan, infielder and captain of last year's Paducah (Ky.) team in K. I. T. league; Samson Riggs, outfielder, Cincinnati; L. C. Garvey, Benwood, W. Va.; Jack Leyland, catcher and infielder, Butler; Greeneri, first baseman, Butler; Jack Quinn, outfielder, Butler; Ab. O'Brien, outfielder, Butler; Mel Clark, outfielder, Butler; Altman, third base, Butler; Ben Pollard, pitcher, Butler; Gill Miller, pitcher, Butler.

P. O. M. SCHEDULE CALLS FOR 98 GAMES IN YEAR

NO SUNDAYS ARE CARDED

The Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland league schedule calls for 98 games. Each team will play seven games at home with each other club in the league and the same number of games on the road. The series of games are three, two and two. No Sunday games are scheduled.

Steubenville is the only town in the league that can play Sunday games at home, but there are others that would play while away. Steubenville will probably have some of the league clubs play exhibition games Sundays. The receipts of the holiday games will be pooled and accordingly the distribution of games find the teams in the towns that will draw the largest crowds. Braddock is favored in this respect. The big games follow:

NELSON MAKES $54,591.

Fighting Dane Cleans Up That Amount Since September.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Battling Nelson, the fighting Dane, has made $54,591 20 out of fights and sparring exhibitions on the road since last September, when he knocked out Jimmy Britt in the 38th round of their fight at the Colma club in California.

For roughing Terry McGovern around for six rounds in Philadelphia he got $9,971 20, and for boxing exhibitions at the different theaters he realized about $20,000.

W. & J. Opens Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, PA., April 8.—(Special.)—The Washington and Jefferson college baseball team will open the season here next Wednesday with a game with the Wheeling league team. The candidates for the W. and J. team have been having outdoor practice for the last two weeks under the direction of Coach McHale of the Washington league team. The nine that will represent the college for the season has not yet been selected.

Galliot Is the Winner.

Galliott and Schwer, members of the McGee team, rolled an interesting match last night on the St. Augustine alleys, five games, total pins to count. The score:

Galliott	207	191	178	227	184	—1057

$18,000 to Run a Team.

President Heenan of the Terre Haute club says it costs from $18,000 to $20,000 a season to run a Central league team.

DATE IS SET FOR GOLF TOURNEY.

Allegheny Country Club Will Hold Its Open Tournament June 14, 15 and 16.

PLANNING INTERCITY MATCHES

With the annual meeting held last week of the Western Pennsylvania Golf association golf locally is given its spring impetus. The clubs that will have teams that will take part in a series of matches for the team championship of the association will be the same as last year.

These teams are the Allegheny county club, Edgewood Golf club, Edgeworth club, Field club, Oakmont Country club and Pittsburg Golf club. The other clubs which have membership in the association will arrange special matches but will not be represented in the regular series.

The intercity match with Philadelphia will take place June 30 and will be played over the Huntingdon Valley course. No date has been set yet for the return match with Cleveland in Pittsburgh.

It is probable that a match will also be arranged with Washington, D. C.

Dates were reserved for the annual spring invitation tournament at the Allegheny Country club. They are June 14, 15 and 16. This is the big event of the spring locally in golf circles and will bring again to Pittsburgh out-of-town players. It is expected this year that the number of visiting players will be larger than formerly. Young Jerome D. Travers at the amateur tournament last year and others of the topnotchers expressed a desire to come to the Allegheny tournament.

ATHLETES ARE DIFFIDENT.

Visiting Teams Not Entertained in the Big Eastern Colleges.

CAMBRIDGE, April 8.—Although the athletes of Yale and Harvard are far from being such deadly enemies as it is sometimes thought they are, still they are inclined to be diffident to each other.

It has been thought that they should be more sociable on occasions that bring them together, such as a football game or other athletic contests, and an attempt is now being made by the Harvard Crimson with this end in view.

Says the Crimson: "A college team comes to Cambridge. It drives from the hotel to Soldiers' field in an omnibus. And when the game is over it climbs into its omnibus and drives back to its hotel. The team has received its guarantee and has played its scheduled game, much as the Boston Americans might play the New York Americans. It is pretty much a business engagement only.

"Why, then, should not the members of the teams which are to come to Cambridge this spring sit down to dinner with the members of Harvard's teams in the training table room at the Union after the game? Such entertainment as this would be easy to provide. Moreover, it would afford us an opportunity to break away from some of the set and unnatural conditions with which our athletic contests have been surrounded and to carry out the spirit of the new eligibility rules in making our athletics more a matter of pleasure and less a business proposition."

COURTNEY SERIOUSLY HURT.

Phillies' Third Baseman Out of Game for Three Weeks.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—(Special.)—Third Baseman Courtney of the Phillies, is more seriously hurt than was at first supposed, and according to the physicians in charge of his case he will not be able to play ball for at least three weeks, and maybe longer. He attended yesterday's game with his shoulder in a sling, and the muscles of his side have been badly wrenched.

Courtney received his injury in Thursday's game when sliding into first base after hitting a slow roller near the foul line. Courtney slid for the bag and his shoulder struck Davis with full force. He was unable to raise his arm on Friday, and yesterday he was examined under the X-rays at the German hospital.

The accident is an unfortunate one at this time, especially as it breaks up the regular infield on the eve of the opening series with the world's champions on Thursday. No one feels the misfortune more than Courtney, who is one of the hardest workers on the team, and from the form he displayed in the south promised to play better ball than he has for several seasons.

SOMERSET COUNTY WILL NOT BE SIDETRACKED

SOMERSET, PA., April 8.—(Special.)—Contrary to published reports, Somerset county will not be sidetracked this year as it has been in the past since it was joined to Greene and Fayette counties in a congressional district. Attorney John G. Ogle of Somerset tonight denied the statement that Allen F. Cooper will be returned to congress without opposition and that Attorney Ogle would withhold his candidacy under an agreement that he should succeed Cooper. Ogle says that he is a candidate in earnest and that it is Somerset county's turn to have the nomination.

PARKS THE MECCA TOWARD WHICH THE PEOPLE TURN

Thousands in the People's Playgrounds, Flower Show and Zoo Being the Attractions.

That the public parks of Pittsburgh are the places of recreation for the masses was never more clearly demonstrated than yesterday, when the first floral display of the season was on at Schenley, and when, as usual, the Zoo was open to the public at Highland park. Ten thousand people took either the morning or afternoon to pay a visit to the playground of the public. In addition, a thousand from the first Allegheny valley excursion of the season came in during the day.

The 10,000 people who visited the parks were very evenly divided between Highland and Schenley. At the latter three floral houses were arranged for the public, the azalia house, rose house and hydrangia house. The main display will be next Sunday, when cineraria and calceolaria (Fishermen's baskets) will be on exhibition. Superintendent Burke stated that nearly all the faces he saw at the park yesterday were those of strangers.

At Highland the Zoo seems to have lost none of its charm. All day a long line of pedestrians wended their way around the walks to the Zoo and spent a few hours looking at the animals.

Spink Gets Bullet in His Breast.

Russell Spink, aged 17, of Stanton avenue and Fifty-second street, and William Figgs, aged 13, of 2119 Carnegie street, were examining a 22-caliber revolver in a stable in Berlin alley yesterday afternoon when the weapon was accidentally discharged. The bullet struck Spink in the right side of the chest, inflicting an ugly but not a dangerous wound. Spink was taken to St. Francis hospital. Figgs was locked up in No. 5 police station. He insists the shooting was purely accidental and Spink corroborates him.

Wife Beaters Face New Magistrate.

Two alleged wife-beaters were among the prisoners to face Magistrate Hadfield at his first Sunday morning hearings at Allegheny Central station. They were William Johnston of Thomas street and Patrick Murphy of East Locock street. Considering the charge the magistrate was rather lenient, he fining them $10 and costs or 90 days to the workhouse and $5 and costs or 10 days in jail, respectively.

RUSSIAN LIBERALS WIN.

Their Wildest Hopes Realized in the Elections of Members of Parliament.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 8.—The electoral colleges in 28 out of the 51 provinces in European Russia today elected 178 members to the national parliament—and returns received up to midnight indicate that the wildest hopes of the Liberals have been realized, the Constitutional Democrats and other progressivists having gained a tremendous victory over the Octoberists and other conservitive parties.

MOSCOW, April 8.—The Moscow municipal election, held today, was the culmination of a veritable whirlwind canvass. The votes will not be counted until tomorrow. Last night meetings were held in all the available public halls and in the streets. The vote today was the heaviest ever cast here. Up to 3 o'clock over 30,000 of the 50,000 registered electors had voted. The Monarchist workers, pointing to the crosses on the churches, appealed to the voters not to convert the churches into synagogues by electing Judophiles. Many women peddled tickets. The Constitutional Democrats appeared to have the better of the voting and claim a victory.

"PRETTY POLLY," SAYS MARY, THEN SHE LOSES BALANCE

Sight of a green poll-parrot strutting majestically up and down Carson street yesterday morning arrested the wavering foot-steps of Mary Craigins. "Pretty Poll, come to Mary," said she, at the same time reaching out a friendly hand. Polly was willing enough only Mary wasn't equal to the task. Poll fluttered out of harm's way as Miss Craigins pitched headlong to the pavement. There is where the policeman found her. She slept it off in No. 7.

Arranging Primary Date.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—(Special.)—Banking Commissioner James A. Berker and Herman M. Kephart, former member of the legislature from Fayette county, are here to see Representative A. F. Cooper relative to the date for holding the Republican congressional primaries in that district. It is probable that they will be held May 29 or 30.

NEW TUBE CITY OFFICIALS.

M'Keesport Councils Will Meet Tonight and With the Mayor, Fill a Number of Offices.

The sixteenth council of McKeesport will hold its first meeting this evening, when it is expected Mayor Coleman will hand in his appointments and a city engineer, solicitor and water commissioner are to be elected at the joint session of councils.

Contests are on for all the elective offices. Peter Kenny, present day desk sergeant at Central police station, is expected to be the next chief of police. County Detective John Englert, Common Councilman J. J. Hill and the present chief, L. E. Rotzsch, are also after the job. Lewis Steiner is picked to win the meat and milk inspectorship and Gray Dougherty will probably be the next street commissioner. W. B. Brisbine and John McCully also want to be street commissioner. Drs. J. B. Clifford and R. L. Steele are expected to be the board of health appointees. Harmony prevails and it is said there will be no trouble in select council when the mayor asks confirmation.

There is a warm contest on for city engineer, with the incumbent, Thomas W. White picked to win. Samuel D. Foster and several others will be nominated. William Evans will likely succeed himself as water commissioner over W. K. Herwig and George Baehr, employes of the United States Steel Corporation. W. E. Newlin, the incumbent, is without opposition for city solicitor. A board of revision and appeals will be chosen, and the presidents of council will hand down their committees.

Brother Among His Prisoners.

James Dorsey, a negro janitor at No. 5 police station, was responsible for five prisoners who were up for hearings at No. 3 police station yesterday morning, one of whom was his brother, Joseph. On Saturday evening the janitor attempt to arrest Charles Young on Thirty-second street. John Doe, Frank Timberlake, Samuel Patterson and Joe Dorsey interfered. The janitor sent in a riot call, and had the quintet locked up. The brother was discharged at the hearing, but the others were fined $1 and costs.

UNFAIR CRITICISM OF LEGISLATORS

Support of New Courts Being Used Against Cumings and Brann.

AN ISSUE IN WARREN COUNTY

Senator H. H. Cumings and Representative James Beann of Warren, are being criticised in some of their home papers because they voted for bills creating two new courts in Allegheny county. The senator is now a candidate for representative in the Twenty-eighth congressional district and Mr. Brann wants to succeed himself in the legislature.

In Allegheny county no one would think of criticising a legislator for supporting these bills. Those who have business with the courts know the necessity for more judges. Owing to the failure of the friends of the legislation to properly place the conditions here before the executive, Gov. Pennypacker vetoed the measures. Now Warren county opponents of Cumings and Brann are endeavoring to show these representatives were false to their trust in supporting the bills.

The population of Allegheny county is more than 20 times greater than Warren county. Here there are thousands of foreigners. In Warren the foreign population is confined to Swedes. They are not frequenters of the courts and are good citizens. In Allegheny county District Attorney Stewart says of the 5,000 cases last year in the quarter sessions court at least 70 per cent of the defendants were foreigners, and 40 per cent of the crime was committed by Slavs. Three courts are required to handle the quarter sessions business.

There are six judges working day and night on the common pleas court business. Their calendars are never clear and never will be until they are given assistance. Some of the courts are over two years behind. A great industrial center like Pittsburgh is prolific in litigation. All these facts were laid before the legislature. The Allegheny county bar association indorsed the legislation and the entire legislative delegation from this county supported the bills. With this knowledge it was natural that Senator Cumings and Representative Brann should vote for the measure.

In the eight years that Senator Cumings has served in the senate, he has made an excellent record for himself. He has always been a careful legislator, and, while a strong Republican, he has not followed the organization unless he believed it led in the right direction. Few senators have given closer attention to legislation and many "snakes" have been scotched by him. During sessions of the legislature he made Harrisburg his home and all of his time was devoted to his constituents. Had he not aspired to the higher office of representative in congress, Mr. Cumings would no doubt have received another term at the hands of the people of the Warren-Venango district.

Mr. Brann has not had the long legislative experience of his colleague, but during the regular and extra session he made a good record. It is the custom of Warren county to give her representatives two terms. From what can be learned about the sentiment of his constituents they are satisfied to return him to Harrisburg.

Hon. H. H. Cumings.

E. F. ACHESON WILL NOT REFUSE NOMINATION

Washington Congressman Will Be the Republican Candidate for Governor If Opportunity Offers.

WASHINGTON, PA., April 8.—Congressman Ernest F. Acheson is a candidate for renomination. He is serving his sixth term and has had the nomination from the district for eight terms and the indorsement from his own county for nine terms. His friends here and elsewhere in the state believe that he is today the most logical candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, but the people of his own county do not desire him to throw up his congressional chances in a race for the governorship. Mr. Acheson is not adverse to accepting a nomination for governor and if the situation in the state seems to open the way for him, his friends will make every possible effort toward making the boom go.

The announcement that George W. Johnson of Lawrence county has entered the congressional field will complicate the political situation. Acheson can carry Washington county by a large majority at the primaries and hold the Lawrence county men even in the rest of the district. Some of Johnson's friends in New Castle have advised him to keep out of the contest, realizing the probability of defeat and knowing that it will, in the future, eliminate him if he should want to run again.

Two more candidates have announced for the Republican nomination for assembly, A. E. McCabe of Hanover, and C. A. Bentley of Monongahela.

DEBS WILL SPEAK HERE.

Socialistic Leader Will Address Mass Meeting to Protest Against Idaho Situation.

A call has been issued by Fred L. Schwartz, county organizer, for a mass-meeting of Socialists, to be held in Carnegie hall, Allegheny, on the night of Saturday, April 21, to protest against the arrest of Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone and other members of the Western Federation of Miners who are charged with complicity in the assassination of Gov. Steunenberger of Idaho.

A street parade of Allegheny, South Side and Pittsburgh divisions of the Socialistic party will precede the meeting, the course being from Smithfield and Water streets, to Grant, to Fifth avenue, to Market street and thence across the Sixth street bridge and along Federal street to the hall. The speakers who are announced to appear are Eugene V. Debs, Ben Hanford and Charles O. Sherman.

"The Princess Beggar."

Following close upon the heels of several weeks of the more legitimate style of dramatic entertainment, comes to the Belasco theater next Monday night for a week's engagement only, one of Shuberts biggest and best musical shows, which the author, Edward Paulton, and the composer, Alfred G. Robyn, have chosen to term "a fantastic comedy opera," and which is said to afford the star, Miss Laula Edwardes, unlimited opportunities for the display of those original comedy talents that have earned for her widespread fame and favor. Regarding the production of "Princess Beggar," the promises are made that nothing quite so startling from a sumptious point has been seen here this season.

DR. OLDHAM BACK FROM OLD MANILA

Methodist Bishop of the Philippines Makes Some Interesting Observations.

AMERICANS IN THE ORIENT

The Rev. Dr. William F. Oldham, Methodist Episcopal bishop of the Philippines, South India and the Malay islands, is in Pittsburgh. The bishop was called from Manila by cable for a three months' campaign in the interest of the oriental missions. He preached twice yesterday. Today he will go to New York. The bishop said:

"The Filipino is an American citizen in things that hit him hard. And he is not an American citizen in things that ought to benefit him. The tariff hits him, a Chinese boycott clips him. There is no doubt, however, that the islands are experiencing an upward push in every direction, chiefly educationally, because they are American. When you know that of 1,000,000 children of school age 400,000 are going to school, you can realize one benefit of American occupation. Our school system in the Philippines is magnificent.

"The Protestants are satisfied with the progress of their missions. Then, too, the Roman Catholic church is fortunate in the transfer of the leadership of the church from the Spaniards to the four bishops who are there, a wide-awake quartet of Americans, who have instilled much movement into their denomination. It is a more difficult matter to help 8,000,000 or 10,000,000 people of an ancient civilization to the heights of Democracy than we in our optimism thought. But we are doing it, although slowly."

Americans, it is his opinion, have not yet learned the art of living in the tropics, and those in the Philippines suffer much from amoebic dysentery, supposed to be caused largely by the use of unboiled, unfiltered water, and the use of uncooked vegetables, like lettuce and radishes. The government is paying great attention to the study of tropical diseases. It has in the Philippines one of the finest bacteriological laboratories in the world, and much progress has been made in the knowledge of tropical diseases.

In speaking of the need of medical science generally in the Philippines, Bishop Oldham said it was told at a gathering of physicians in Manila recently that 50 per cent of Filipino babies die before they are a year old. Some day the bishop hopes to take up with the women of America a proposition for training women in domestic hygiene and sanitation, so that in turn intelligent Filipino women may be trained and then spread the knowledge among the women of their country.

Bishop Oldham was born in India, the son of an English officer. When a boy he came to America, studied at Allegheny college in Meadville, attended the seminary in Boston, and was pastor from 1890 to 1895 of the Butler Street Methodist Episcopal church. He was elected bishop two years ago. He preached yesterday morning in the Emory church and last evening in the Lincoln avenue church, whose pastor, the Rev. John Hillman, is an old friend.

CHURCH SHOULD AID THE CIVIL AUTHORITIES

Seven Things It Might Do to Assist Mayor of Pittsburgh in Saving the City.

"How the Church May Help the Mayor Save the City," was the subject of the sermon delivered last evening by the Rev. J. T. McCrory, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian church. Mr. McCrory said in part:

The church as a body ought to use its vast influence in the interests of civic welfare. It ought to be a distinct support to good government in any city. Demand for reform is universal in our great centers of population. Conditions exist that are actually appalling, as the revelations of the recent past have made evident. Pittsburgh is no exception. How shall the church assist our mayor in saving our city?

First—The church ought to recognize its obligation to public welfare. No doubt society owes much to Christianity. But on the other hand, Christianity owes much to society and social order. If the church as a whole in any community in which it is as influential as in this city, would let it be understood that it intended to stand by the civil authorities in the performance of their duties, it would fortify the purpose of every honest official and strengthen his hands against evil forces that seek to control and corrupt him.

Second—It ought to put emphasis on the fact that the welfare of the city and the success of the administration of its affairs depends distinctly on the favor of God. There is an immense amount of practical atheism among us as to the relation of God to public affairs. Even Christian people count little on God in reforms and look to this fad or that for civic betterment.

Third—It ought to advocate and insist on high ideals in civic morals and condemn emphatically every compromise with vice and crime. It may not be possible to root out all vice and crime, but it is possible to be distinctly in favor of virtue and the virtuous and against the vicious and the criminal.

Fourth—It should teach such doctrines of civic duty as will tend to root out and render impossible grafting and political jobbery and insure honesty and probity in public officers and affairs. Preachers should be outspoken on these matters and churches should excommunicate rascals of every description, high or low.

Fifth—It should place a high value on human life as God does and should insist on protection for all, and especially it should insist on the best sanitary conditions for the poor and such as cannot protect themselves.

Sixth—It should exalt simple, straightforward executive obligation and insist on old fashioned enforcement of law. The executive should have nothing to do with the law but enforce it.

Seventh—The churches and Christian citizens should stand together for what is right and fair in behalf of the mayor as against all partizan forces which in the interest of partizanship would defeat his efforts on behalf of good government. The chief officer of this great Christian city ought to have the hearty support, encouragement and earnest prayers of every good citizen and be made to feel in his trying position the help of all the virtuous forces.

Like Their Quarters Too Well.

Four rough-looking men sought shelter from the rain yesterday afternoon in a room in the Pittsburgh & Western freight station. Liking the quarters, they refused to leave. They did leave finally, going away in a patrol wagon. They may get more permanent quarters this morning.
